LOCAL NEWS.

The Damage Done by the Storm.

A Report That the City Was About to Be Flooded.

The Washouts and What the Railroads Are Doing.

A Wreck and General Smashup at Garvanza—Excursions Beginning to Arrive—The Streets in a Frightful Condition—Other News.

The rain continued to fall in torrents during the early hours of yesterday, but slacked up after daybreak, and partially cleared up. It clouded up again, however, and showers fell at intervals during the entire day. About 3 o'clock in the morning there was a sharp hailstorm, and for a few minutes it came down at a lively rate. A number of streets are badly washed, and several caves have occurred. On the principal thoroughfares men were stationed at the crossings, which were kept in a reasonably passable condition. The street cars ran very irregularly and there was much complaint over the detentions caused by cars getting off the track. The cable roads suffered to some extent, but kept going, and the Temple-street line made its regular trips on schedule time by having men stationed at various points along the route and keeping the tracks clear. Excavations all over the city were partially filled with water, and all low-lying points were converted into miniature lakes. About 4 o'clock a report was circulated that the Beaudry-avenue reservoir had broken, or was in danger, but a visit to the place by a TIMES reporter revealed nothing out of the usual run. All the reservoirs are firm, and can stand considerably more pressure before there is any danger.

The danger from a wash at the corner of Temple street and Lake Shore avenue; also on Second street, and several of the new streets recently opened up and filled in are impassable for teams. The sewer excavations are also partially filled with water, which will have to be pumped out before any further work can be done. So far very few accidents have been reported, and none of a serious nature, with a single exception. The rains have entirely washed the bottom out of the portion of Wall street where the contractors have been working for the past two weeks in grading the street. This has made the street very unsafe for teams, and yesterday afternoon almost caused a serious if not fatal accident.

A heavy truck loaded with household goods, belonging to some parties who were removing to a different part of the city, and which was covered by a heavy tarpaulin, came down Fifth street and turned south to Wall. The overflow of water from the higher ground had run down into the excavation made by the graders, and had so filled it up that it apparently was level with the regular roadbed, as defined by the track of the electric railway running along the center of the street.

The driver of the truck did not notice the fact that the road-bed had been excavated, and in a moment the heavy vehicle was drawn clear into the mud and water until it was stuck tight and embeded in mud over the hubs of the wheels. As the truck went down the driver attempted to jump from his seat, supporting himself by a grab at the tarpaulin which covered the load. His hand, however, slipped off, and the man fell immediately in front of the wheels of his truck, which the horses at the same time moved a few feet forward. Luckily the driver saw his peril as he fell, and throwing his body clear under the muddy water he managed to clear himself from the truck, and thus escaped being crushed under the load at the expense of a thorough wetting.

The truck was afterward pulled out by the assistance of another team, and a board was stuck in the mud at the dangerous place to warn other drivers and prevent a similar accident.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Washouts and Accidents—A Wreck at Garvanza.

The railroad situation showed considerable improvement yesterday. The heavy rains of the day and night before had evidently found all the weak places in the road-bed, and no further breaks were reported. All washouts on the Southern Pacific lines have been repaired, and trains are moving along the entire length from San Francisco to El Paso, and from thence to New Orleans. There are 330 south-bound cars at Sumner, which are being moved out at the rate of 120 to 160 cars per day, and the freight is being delivered from the Los Angeles freight depot in the same proportions. Sunset freights are making schedule time through to California terminals, and California Central passenger business is being handled by the Southern Pacific from Colton to this city. There are now about 600 Santa Fé west-bound loads at Deming, destined to the various California terminals, and these are being moved westward as fast as power owned by the Southern Pacific can handle them. Seven new engines from the East have gone into service at El Paso this week, and every effort will be made by the Southern Pacific people to take care of the immense volume of freight thrown upon them at that point. Train No. 19 came in and went out on time yesterday, and the local from San Francisco, due here at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, came in about 2, only an hour late. The train from the East was reported 13 hours late at El Paso, but was sent out on time from this point. Trains are also moving regularly over the Santa Monica road. The Southern Pacific has certainly done good work in getting in shape with so little delay and inconvenience to the public. In discussing the railroad situation yesterday, a Southern Pacific official said:

"It was not to be reasonably expected that the Southern Pacific Company, with the enormous and unprecedented growth that has characterized its own business of late, would be in position to take up the California freight traffic of the Santa Fé at a day's notice and handle it on schedule time. In view of the fact, however, that it has already brought in about 750 carloads of this delayed and diverted freight for the various California terminals, it is certainly deserving of credit at the hands of this community for the disposition shown by its managers to do everything in their power, be it much or little, toward relief."

The California Central is still considerably demoralized, although the company is making every effort to get the lines in shape for business again. There was a very bad break at Garvanza, and five or six freight cars were detached. A watchman is kept on the bridge every night. A construction train went out yesterday and repaired the washes along the line to Pasadena. No trains were sent out over this road until 5:30 o'clock last evening, with the exception of the local to Duarte, which left at 5 o'clock, when the San Diego express left, and will probably get through without delay, as no trouble is reported between San Bernardino and San Diego, and the road is intact. At 6 o'clock the overland express was sent out over the Southern Pacific's track to Colton, and will go through without delay, as no breaks are reported from that point east. The California Central is still considerably hampered by the scarcity of coal, and also from lack of motive power. The local business of the road has increased at such a rapid rate that it has been almost impossible to keep up with it. It is now believed that the worst is over, and in a day or two everything will be running as smoothly as ever. The delayed excursion parties will probably arrive in the course of the day.

A DOCTOR'S FEES.

He Has to Sue an Administrator to Get His Dues.

A civil suit in which Dr. Isaac Fellows was the plaintiff and Frank A. Gibson, as administrator of the estate of James A. Goodwin, deceased, was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Austin. It appears that when appointed as administrator Mr. Gibson caused to be published a notice to the creditors of the estate to send in their bills before a certain date. Dr. Fellows sent in his bill for attendance and prescriptions with the other creditors, but by an oversight he failed to itemize the account and it was consequently returned to him for correction. Before the account was itemized and returned the advertised time had expired and the estate was settled, leaving Dr. Fellows's account, amounting to something over $200, unpaid.

For this amount, together with the costs of suit and legal interest, the doctor now sued Mr. Gibson, and after the testimony was heard by the court, the amount of the bill not being disputed by the defense nor its justness being questioned, a verdict was rendered in favor of the plaintiff, giving him judgment for the full amount claimed.

Whisky Killed Him.

An inquest was held yesterday on the body of Martin Gallagher, who died suddenly at San Pedro on Wednesday afternoon. H. B. Lathrop, a practicing physician, stated that he was called to see the deceased and found him sit

After referring to the right to appropriate one-half of the transportation service and 5 per cent. of the net earnings, the Court says: It is not wholly unreasonable to suggest that the amount which the company may be compelled to pay annually under these two provisions will be sufficient as a sinking fund to pay the entire debt, principal and interest, before it fall due.

Since these words were written the 5 per cent. has been increased to 25 per cent., the half transportation to the whole transportation, and still but little progress has been made in making provision for this large obligation. We are satisfied that the people of the United States, and their representatives in Congress, have been largely controlled in their opposition to measures heretofore presented for the adjustment of these matters because of a natural unwillingness to permit these wrongs to go unredressed and without any effort whatever to properly prosecute and punish the offenders.

We have, therefore, inserted in the bill which we recommend a section requiring the Union Pacific Railway Company, in accepting the terms of the adjustment offered, to consent that as to all causes of action existing or to exist against any trustee, director, or officers of the company, for any cause whatsoever, the company shall, on the application of the Department of Justice of the United States, bring any suit or take any proceedings that shall be directed by that department, and prosecute such suit or proceedings, under its direction, to final consummation.

CENTRAL PACIFIC'S AFFAIRS.

The Central Pacific Railroad is next taken up, its subsidized portion being from a point five miles west of Ogden, Utah, to Sacramento, Cal., a distance of 737.50 miles, and from Sacramento city to San José (formerly known as the Western Pacific), at the south end of the Bay of San Francisco, a distance of 123.16 miles. The total amount of subsidy was $27,855,680. The additions to the company by consolidations and extensions is explained, and its present mileage is placed at 1357.29 miles, of which 860.77 are subsidized, and 496.52 unsubsidized, the subsidized portion having no direct communication with San Francisco. Prior to 1885 a large number of local branch roads were operated by the Central Pacific under leases, these roads running through the most productive and populous parts of the State, and adding largely to the income of the main line.

In addition to these branches a complete system of railway, extending from Goshen, Cal., to Needles, Ariz., thence through Arizona and New Mexico and through part of Texas to El Paso, to Houston, and thence men prominently connected with the Central Pacific secured connection with the East from New Orleans by water. This system, known as the Southern Pacific system, was operated by the Central Pacific prior to 1885, but then a change was made, the system being divided into two parts, one including the Central Pacific and leased lines north of Goshen, and the other the Southern Pacific and leased lines south of Goshen, and both systems were leased to a Kentucky corporation known as the Southern Pacific Company. The latter company assumed payment of all the Central Pacific obligations by way of interest, and also of the government requirements, and agreed to pay an annual rental fixed at a minimum of $1,200,000. In addition to this sum the Southern Pacific Company agrees to make the entire amount of its payments equal to the actual net earnings of the road, such payments not to exceed $2,400,000.

With the exception of about 100 miles from the base of the Sierra Nevada Mountains to Sacramento the country is much of a barren wilderness. The country traversed by the Western Pacific is well adapted to secure a fair and increasing revenue. The evidence does not show in the subsidized line a capacity for net earnings to exceed $3,000,000 per annum. The system is valued by Col. Morgan at $150,000,000, which the commission thinks is excessive. The statutory lien given to the United States is limited to that portion of the road between Ogden and San José and has no applications to any branches or leased lines. The bonded debt is figured at $62,387,000 and the government lien at $27,855,680, making a total funded debt of $90,242,680. Besides the road itself there are 94,570,000 land grant bonds, and to some extent the 50-year bonds which are a lien on the land grant, to bear this burden. As the indebtedness is greater than the cost of reproducing the roads the commission reach the conclusion that a present mortgage given by the Central Pacific Railroad, embracing the entire 1357.29 miles of the railroad, as now consolidated, would therefore give but little additional security to the present statutory lien. It has, however, as in the case of the Union Pacific, the advantage of gathering together and placing within the control of the creditor a complete mortgage of the entire railroad, including the California and Oregon, the San Joaquin Valley, the San Francisco, Oakland and Alameda branches and the terminal facilities at Oakland and San Francisco.

THE DEBT TO THE GOVERNMENT.

The debt owing the Government is $71,-793,534, after deducting the amount of bonds held by the Government and the sinking fund. The commission propose a mortgage under which the company should pay the government $1,736,585 annually for 10 years, and after that the sum of $1,973,-240 annually until the debt is paid.

The same considerations which have influenced the action of the committee in regard to the Union Pacific apply to the Central Pacific. It is equally desirable to substitute for the percentage system the payment of fixed sums, but says the report:

The application of the remedy to the Central Pacific Railway Company is a difficult task. It is hardly to be expected that any act resembling the act submitted in the case of the Union Pacific Railway Company will be accepted by the Central Pacific Railway Company. On the other hand, in the event of a refusal to accept, the application of the entire net earnings resulting from that portion of the road in consideration of which the bonds were issued, is insufficient to meet the accruing interest paid and to be paid by the United States. It is also insufficient to accomplish a repayment of the present worth of the obligation, even at the reduced rate of 3 per cent. per annum, for the reason that the entire net earnings will not amount to 8 per cent. of the present value of the debt.

The commission believe that the enforcement of the Government lien would result as a gift of the whole amount due the United States.

The Central branch of the Union Pacific Railroad extends from Atchison to Waterville, Kan., a distance of 100 miles. Its cost was $2,004,000, and its annual earnings $341,000. Its bonded debt is $8,830,000, and the net amount of its Government obligation is $3,960,684. To pay this the commission propose a mortgage under which $118,-750 shall be paid annually for 10 years, and $130,000 annually thereafter until the whole debt is paid.

The Sioux City and Pacific road extends from Sioux City, Iowa, to Fremont, Neb., a distance of 101 miles, with a branch to Missouri Valley Junction, of about six miles in length. Its average earnings are $237,303; its funded indebtedness is $1,625,-000, and its obligation to the United States, $3,384,067. A mortgage is proposed under which the company shall pay annually for 10 years $116,200, and $133,800 annually thereafter until the debt is paid. The bills submitted by the commission differ from any pending legislation—first, in the method of computing present value of indebtedness; second, they direct the discount to be computed at 3 per cent., compounded; third, they add a mortgage in the statutory lien; fourth, they provide for a simpler bond; fifth, give wide range in the investment of the sinking fund; sixth, they forbid the declaring of dividends except from the earnings of the fiscal year, and these only after the requirements of the Government have been met; seventh, they require the companies to institute suits against officers for the misappropriation of the company's funds; eighth, they amend the Thurman act so as to apply to the existing condition of each company.

WHAT THE ROAD RECEIVED.

In the second part the commission show the amount of bonds and the quantity of land received by the Pacific roads to be as follows:

BONDS.

Union Pacific	$27,236,512
Kansas Pacific	6,303,000
Central Branch Union Pacific	1,600,000
Sioux City and Pacific	1,6 8,230
Central Pacific	25,885 120
Western Pacific	1 97 ,550
Total	$64,623,512

LANDS.

	Acres.	Rate per acre.	Amount.
Union Pacific	11,309,844	$1 25	$14,137,305
Kansas Pacific	6,000,000	1 25	7,500,000
Central Br'nch U'n P.	222,500	1 25	278,300
Sioux City & Pacific	43,336	1 25	54,170
Central Pacific	8,000,000	1 25	10,000,000
Western Pacific	453,794	1 25	567,243
Totals	26,429,534		$32,536,918
Total bonds and lands			$97,160,430

As to the financial operations of the Union Pacific Company the commission refers to the management of Mr. Gould and his directors in undertaking to release themselves from liability and obligation by their own acts and rates as "somewhat extraordinary." The report deals quite extensively with the operations of Mr. Gould in purchasing the Missouri Pacific, the Kansas Central, and the Central Branch Union Pacific, with the view of constructing a road from St. Louis to the Pacific. The methods employed by him to terrify directors to a submission to his plans are discussed in a manner not to Mr. Gould's credit as a reputable railway manager.

As a contrast to such management the commission refers to the conservative, energetic and intelligent management which has characterized the administration of the Union Pacific Railway from the spring of 1884 to the present time. The commissioners have gone into the management of the Central Pacific Company with great minuteness and severe criticism.

As an evidence of the Huntington management the cost of the Central Pacific is given at $120,872,529, when the commission found that it was $58,301,831, leaving a profit of $62,500,000, which was paid to Stanford, Huntington, Hopkins and Crocker, being voted to them by their own votes. Other similar transactions are given.

WANTON VIOLATION OF LAW.

As to the Souix City and Pacific Company, the commission found no construction books or vouchers in existence from which the cost of construction could be ascertained, but the action of the commissioners in dividing among themselves the first mortgage bonds of the road is characterized as a wanton violation of law. The commission report that the requirements of assessing stockholders upon their stock until the par value should be fully paid has not been kept; that the requirements of first-class roads have also not been kept; that the requirement to construct telegraph lines has not been kept; that the obligations for carrying troops and the mails have been observed, and that no dividends on any of the bonded-aided roads have ever been paid in violation of law. The commission finds, where there is no proof of actual bribery, that money and passes have been used by officials of the Union Pacific Company for influencing legislation.

The bill proposed by the commission is designed to remedy the evils mentioned above.

THE MINORITY REPORT.

Commissioner Pattison Favors Stringent Measures.

The report of ex-Gov. Pattison of Pennsylvania covers 20 pages, with 48 additional pages of specifications in support of the general statements contained in the report. It briefly recites the history of the grant of subsidy bonds amounting to $64,623,512 to the six railroad companies (afterward reduced in number by consolidations to four) which formed parts of the original scheme of communication between five points on the Missouri River and the Pacific Ocean. It gives the figures showing the payment of interest for 30 years by the Government on these bonds, amounting to $114,361,247; the grant of 26,000,000 acres of land to the railroad companies, on which they have realized $32,479,213.71, with lands worth $26,-000,000 yet unsold; the receipt by the companies of aid from other sources, amounting to $3,070,877, and the further advantage of $199,790,250, representing the value of the use of the Government's annual advances of $8,877,410, which it does not require the companies to repay until the maturity of the subsidy bonds in 1895-'99.

$447,726,470.54 IN AID.

By adding these sums together the Commissioner calculates that the total aid extended to the six companies was as follows:

Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific	$241,696,788 07
Central Branch	10,873,173 22
Sioux City and Pacific	10,048,425 05
Central Pacific and Western Pacific	185,611,083 69
Total	$447,729,470 54

In return for these advantages Congress enacted that the companies should bind themselves to have their stock fully paid in cash; that they should build first-class road; that they should carry for the Government at fair and reasonable rates, not exceeding the amount paid by private parties for the same kind of service; that they would operate all lines of the Pacific system as one connected continuous line, affording to each of the other roads equal facilities as to rates, time and transportation, and to convey telegraphic messages upon equal terms for all persons. They were also required to make sworn annual reports showing the amount of stock actually paid in, and information relating to their financial operations.

Instead of receiving money only for stock, the Union Pacific Railroad Company received $400,650 in cash for stock, and issued $58,702,300 of stock. The Kansas Pacific, on account of its aided portion, issued stock to the amount of $4,823,500, for which no cash whatever was paid. The Central Pacific received $760,000 in cash for stock subscriptions, and issued stock to the amount of $54,283,190. The Central branch received $386,700 in cash for stock, and issued $980,600 of stock. Altogether the four companies named received less than $2,000,000 in money for stock, yet their officers swore that over $67,000,000 of stock had been "actually paid in."

The stock of the Sioux City and Pacific was fully paid. But in return for every $40 paid in, each stockholder received $80 shortly after the completion of the road, either in cash or in negotiable bonds, in addition to his certificate of ownership in a road that represented 50 per cent. in excess of his subscription.

COST AND CAPITALIZATION.

In a table entitled "Cost and Capitalization," the Commissioner says: "The six roads were built for less than $96,000,000, yet bonds and stock were issued for $368,-302,462, as follows:

Name.	Cost.	Bonds and Stocks.
Union Pacific	$38,824,000	$109,614,612
Kansas Pacific	11,800,000	25,026,250
Central Branch	2,731 347	4,200,000
Sioux City and Pacific	2,000,660	5,047,720
Central Pacific	36,000 ,000	124,211,630
Western Pacific	4,000,000
Total	$95,955,347	$268,302,462

After building these lines the construction companies, or inside combinations, divided large sums which had been realized on the sale of bonds and which had not been required for construction.

THEIR MANAGEMENT A NATIONAL DISGRACE.

"The original purposes of Congress, as set forth in the act of July 1, 1862, in granting subsidies for the construction of the Pacific roads, was to promote the public interest, and the companies were made trustees for that purpose; but the public interest has been subordinated by these companies to the stockholding interest. Nearly every obligation which these corporations assumed under the laws of the United States or as common carriers has been violated. Their management has been a national disgrace. Since the date of their inception they have been conducted upon a purely speculative basis. Their permanent prosperity has been lost sight of, while their managers greedily strove for temporary advantage. The aided companies combined with others to tax the communities which they served, and they forced the consuming classes in all sections of the country to contribute to the payment of interest and dividend upon the fictitious capital which they had created. They increased the cost of living. They laid proprietary claim to the traffic of large sections of the country. They squandered millions of their money to protect their territorial claims, while expending other millions in encroachments upon the territory claimed by other companies. They constituted themselves the arbiters of trade. They attempted to dictate the channels that trade should follow, and to fix rates of transportation that were extortionate. They charged all that the traffic would bear, and appropriated a share of the profits of every industry by charging the greater part of the difference between the actual cost of production and the price of the article in the market. They discriminated between individuals, between localities and between articles. They favored particular individuals and companies. They destroyed possible competitors, and they built up particular localities to the injury of other localities, until matters had reached such a pass that no man dared engage in any business in which transportation largely entered without first soliciting and obtaining the permission of a railroad manager. They departed from their legitimate sphere as common carriers, and engaged in mining articles for transportation over their own lines. They exerted a terrorism over merchants and over communities, thus interfering with the lawful pursuits of the people. They participated in election contests. By secret cuts and violent and rapid fluctuations in rates, they menaced business, paralyzed capital and retarded investment and development."

$8,000,000 LOST BY THE GOVERNMENT.

In their relations to the Government they resorted to every device their ingenuity could invent in their efforts to evade the plain requirements of the law. In transporting troops and supplies for the Government they violated the contract obligation to charge reasonable rates by charging more than they charged to private shippers for the same kind of service, and the overcharges upon the Government by the Central and Union Pacific Companies since 1880 are estimated to have been: Union Pacific, $802,407.33; Central Pacific, $107,-558.63. In addition to these losses from overcharges the Government has suffered through the erroneous reports made by the aided companies to the Government, and the total loss from overcharges and erroneous reports is estimated at over $8,000,000.

PROFITS OF $278,023,357.63.

In computing the operations of the various roads the Commissioner gives a table showing profits or net earnings of $278,023,-357.63, equaling $15,000,000 a year, divided as follows:

Union and Kansas Pacific	$145,387,425 76
Central Pacific	124,940,014 87
Sioux City and Pacific	2,763,763 68
Central Branch	4,932,153 32
Total	$278,023,357 63

The aided companies have paid out over $35,000,000 for pools, rebates and refunds of various sorts, and they have deducted these sums from the gross earnings actually made by them before stating the amount which was reported to the Government as their gross earnings.

$142,000,000 DIVIDED BY FOUR MEN.

The Commissioner finds that large sums were applied by each of the companies to improper purposes; that the four men who controlled the Central Pacific, Messrs. Stanford, Huntington, Hopkins and Crocker, had diverted the earnings of that company through contracts made by themselves, with themselves, for construction, leases and repairs, and had divided over $142,000,000 in cash and securities; that they built 1171 miles of adjunct lines, and, as directors of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, took leaves of their own lines from themselves for the Central Pacific at the rate of nearly 13 per cent. per annum; that 15 months ago three of these directors contracted with themselves to build an extension of the California and Oregon division of the Central Pacific, a distance of 103 miles, the actual cost of which work was $3,505,609, while they paid to themselves $8,000,000 in stock and $4,500,000 in bonds—the market value of the stock and bonds at that time being $8,340,000—so that they personally profited by their own votes by that single transaction to the extent of $4,834,391. As directors of the Central Pacific they also loaned the funds of that company to themselves to build the Southern Pacific, a competing line across the continent.

The Central Pacific Company also expended $4,818,355.67, of which the managers declined to give any explanation, or to permit others to explain. The balance sheet of the Central Pacific for 1886 should have shown a deficit of $14,000,000, but by omitting the Government interest from the debit side, and marking up the value of the unsold lands from $12,500,000 to $25,500,000, an apparent surplus of over $28,000,000 was presented.

ACCOUNTS OF THE UNION PACIFIC.

In the accounts of the Union Pacific it was found that $38,000,000 of the funds of that company had been expended for the construction of branch lines; that many millions additional had been squandered in the purchases of bankrupt branch lines at excessive prices, and that the earnings of the express and telegraph service of that company, as well as of the other bond-aided companies, were, in violation of the law, placed under the control of express and telegraph companies in which some of the managers of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Railroad Companies were largely interested, and of which they were the main beneficiaries. The book accounts of the Union Pacific prior to 1880 are frequently unsupported by vouchers, and for some years there are practically no vouchers to establish the correctness of the books. Since 1880 there have been expenditures in connection with legislation in Western States which were not properly vouched for. The accountants of the commission report that no vouchers exist to show the disbursements by the Central branch, and that all the vouchers of the Sioux City and Pacific from 1864 to 1880 are missing, with the exception of a few cash vouchers.

The aided companies disbursed for legal expenses the sum of $5,081,659.08. They also paid for interest, $140,212,332.20, and for dividends, $63,298,105, while they have in 18 years paid to the Government only $30,955,-039.61 toward the payment of a debt which, with its accumulations to December 31, 1886, amounted to $139,536,801, and which before the date of maturity of the debt will reach $178,884,759.50.

LAND PATENTS AND TAX EVASION.

Three of the bond-aided companies—the Central Pacific, Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific—have persistently evaded local taxation, and have thrust undue burdens on other taxpayers by refusing to patent the lands granted to them by Congress. So long as their land was unpatented it was exempt from taxation, and the extent of the exemption may be gathered from the fact that they have failed to patent 8,872,077 acres which they have sold, and they have failed to even apply for patents on 7,500,050 acres of land which they have sold. The refusals of the Central Pacific to pay its taxes to the State of California have been so persistent and so flagrant, and extended over so long a period of years, that the Governor of California, on March 24, 1884, issued a proclamation setting forth the fact that for four years the railroads of the State (the Central Pacific) had refused to obey the laws imposing taxes upon their property, and calling a special session of the Legislature to devise methods for enforcing a compliance with the laws of the State. The Central Pacific had resisted State taxation on the ground that its line had been constructed under act of Congress of July 1, 1862. When the commission examined Mr. Leland Stanford in San Francisco, he insisted that the Central Pacific Company was a State and not a Federal corporation.

MANAGEMENT CONTEMPLATED BY CONGRESS.

Had the Union Pacific railroads been built and managed upon honest methods, had the Government loan been properly applied, these companies, regarded as a whole, could have declared dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum for 18 years, from the date of actual completion to the present time, upon all the moneys that they would have been required to pay in to complete and equip the roads; they would have owned 2495 miles of roads free from all debt, and worth $124,600,000, upon an original outlay of less than $35,490,381.44, and three of them, the Union Pacific, Central Pacific and Central Branch, could have repaid every cent of the principal and interest advanced by the Government to date, and could have reduced their charges to shippers to the extent of over $140,000,000, or nearly $8,000,000 per year. For $1 the stockholders would have realized $1.07 in dividends in 18 years, and $1.11 in land sales. The property would have been free from debt, and for every dollar that they had invested the stockholders would have had in property over $4, so that in 18 years each dollar would have yielded $6.18.

METHODS ACTUALLY PURSUED.

But they chose dishonest methods. At the outset they divided $172,847,115 of fictitious capital; they dissipated over $107,-000,000 which should have been applied to the payment of the principal and interest of the Government debt, and they taxed shippers to the extent of over $140,000,000, or nearly $8,000,000 a year, to pay for the inflation of the capital of these companies, and for the vicious practices that crept into their management. The sum total of their mismanagement reaches $247,000,000.

$36,000,000 IN SETTLEMENT OF A CLAIM OF $122,482,106.32.

Toward the extinguishment of its debt, the commission was told that the Union Pacific Railway Company would pay $55,-000,000. The officials of the Central Pacific said that the aided portion of that line was not worth more than the first mortgage of $27,855,680, which is prior to the Government lien, thus leaving the Government without any return for its unpaid advances thus far made, amounting to $49,000,000; $1,000,000 was offered in liquidation of the Government's claim against the Sioux City and Pacific, amounting to over $3,000,000, so that the commission was offered only $55,-000,000 in settlement of a claim the present worth of which is $123,482,106.32.

ENUMERATION OF NON-COMPLIANCES WITH OBLIGATIONS.

As an appendix to his report, Gov. Pattison enumerates the obligations which were imposed by Congress on each of the companies, and then recites the instances in which those companies have failed to perform those obligations. He charges that each company was required to keep its railroad and telegraph in repair and use, but each of them, in violation of law, abandoned that obligation and transferred that franchise to the Western Union Telegraph Company; that the companies failed to afford to each of the other aided lines of the Pacific system equal advantages and facilities as to rates, time and transportation; that they failed to make assessments of stock as required by law; that the Union Pacific ignored the Government directors in the management of that company; that the consolidation of the Union Pacific with the Kansas Pacific and Denver Pacific in January, 1880, was a fraud upon the Government, by which Jay Gould, Russell Sage, Sidney Dillon, Frederick L. Ames and other directors practically loaded upon the Union Pacific over $30,000,000 of worthless securities for their own advantage and profit; that the Union Pacific Company, in spite of the prohibition of Congress, has issued stock and made pledges upon the property of the company to the extent of $50,000,000; and that the Union Pacific and Central Pacific have violated many of the provisions of the Thurman Act.

THE BRANCH LINES OF THE UNION PACIFIC.

The report devotes 12 pages to the branch-line system of the Union Pacific, and declares that of the branch lines owned, operated or controlled by the Union Pacific 6 have been abandoned to creditors; 8 others did not pay operating expenses in 1886, 10 more failed to pay fixed charges, and 8 out 32 made profits in 1886, and sums up the findings with reference to the branch lines by declaring that the action of the Union Pacific Company in expending its revenues and in pledging its credit to build branch lines exceeded its corporate powers. The report also charges that this policy was pursued after notice from the Government directors that it could only be adopted at the company's risk; that the theory of building branch or feeding lines had been used as a cloak to hide schemes of corruption and maladministration; that the branch-line system of the Union Pacific as a whole is unprofitable; that the Union Pacific has wasted the revenues which could have been applicable to the Government debt, and has removed them from the operation of the statutory lien in violation of section 9 of the Thurman Act, which makes the Government debt a lien upon the estates, rights, franchises and income of the company.

In reviewing the obligations of the Union Pacific as a common carrier the report devotes 10 printed pages to the enumeration of the relations of the railroad to shippers, to communities and to other railroads, reciting the various discriminations and abuses which appear in the testimony.

PRESENT STATUS OF THE GOVERNMENT DEBT.

The present status of the Government debt is also reviewed in detail, and the assertion is made that on the basis of reproducing the aided lines there is a margin of $18,761,688 over prior liens to meet the Government debt, the present value of which is $122,482,106.32. "At present prices of railroad construction it is evident that from the properties themselves the Government cannot recover within $108,000,000 of the present value of the indebtedness owing to it by the bond-aided companies."

WHAT SHOULD THE GOVERNMENT DO.

In commenting on remedies, the Commissioner says: "What should the Government do? A mere money recovery is the least of benefits it should consider in deciding upon its course of action. To redeem these roads from the perverted uses to which they have been applied in order that the beneficent public purpose Congress had in view in their creation may be realized, it is a consideration of infinitely greater importance to the people than the repayment of a given number of dollars and cents in the Treasury. The Government can well afford to lose a portion of this indebtedness if this object can be accomplished. Every consideration of public policy, the enforcement of law, the supremacy and dignity of the Government, demand a treatment of this subject far above and beyond any mere attempt to collect a public debt.

"The Government occupies a dual relation to the bond-aided railroads—as sovereign and as creditor. In this aspect, the question of settlement unfolds complications that would not present themselves in the ordinary relation of creditor and debtor. A mere creditor might assent to compromises, which, in a sovereign dealing with a dishonest creditor who had violated all laws and covenants, would be repugnant to public policy. It cannot afford to condone fraud, to validate the iniquitous work of the Credit Mobilier, the Contract and Finance Company, and similar organizations, or to ignore the unlawful and outrageous discriminations and extortionate charges, and the criminal conspiracies for controlling trade which have characterized the administration of these railroads since the date of their completion.

"When the Credit Mobilier scandal was exposed by the investigations of the Wilson Committee in 1873, the Government was offered the alternative of attempting, by a suit in equity, to recover from the Union Pacific Company the money that had been improperly appropriated, or of proceeding to forfeit the charter of that corporation. A suit in equity was begun in the Circuit Court of Connecticut, but the Supreme Court, upon the demurrer of the stockholders of the Union Pacific, held that the Government, as a creditor, could not sue until the debt had matured in 1895, and so dismissed the case. Since that time the Government has been barred from all efforts at recovery, and is today experiencing the embarrassments of that decision.

"The question recurs, What shall the Government do? The assets of the companies today are insufficient to pay the present worth of the debt, and they will not be able to pay it in 1895 except by assessing stockholders, or by the recovery of large sums of which the companies were defrauded.

EFFECT OF THE MAJORITY RECOMMENDATION.

"The majority of the commission recommend an extension of the time for payment of the debts of all the companies for 50 years on certain terms. The testimony shows that, except the Union Pacific, none of these companies have agreed to, or will or can accept the terms recommended by the majority. The traffic manager of the Central Pacific testified that his company could not pay the debt, and that an extension for an indefinite time would not be sufficient to enable it to do so. The fact is, that as to all the companies except the Union Pacific, their bankruptcy is so complete and irretrievable that no part of their indebtedness can ever be recovered by the Government except by immediate compulsory legal process. Extension of time for payment, therefore, means in reality but an increase of the amount of the debt and the making of its recovery the more hopeless. The bonds of the Union Pacific provided for in the majority report would sell for about 50 cents on the dollar, and the bonds of the other companies would not be negotiable. The actual effect, therefore, of the report of the majority of the commission is that its recommendation of extension of the time for payment is impractical and impotent as to all these companies except the Union Pacific, and, if adopted, could only result in the failure of the Government to realize any portion of the indebtedness, and would be substantially a gift of that sum to those companies. For this reason the recommendation of the majority will be considered only so far as it applies to the Union Pacific Railway Company.

OBJECTIONS TO EXTENSION.

"The objections to an extension of the time of payment of the debt of the Union Pacific are many and insuperable, and were strongly urged upon the Commissioners when testimony was taken in Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. The Union Pacific Company has received $176,294,793.53 in surplus earnings and land sales during 18 years, and if its stock had been fully paid, as Congress required that it should be, and as its officers certified under oath that it was, nearly all of that money would be applicable today to the payment of the Government debt. The company has paid out $78,650,770 in dividends, and $62,742,856.28 in interest on bonds, nearly all of which were distributed to shareholders without consideration; it has sunk over $10,000,000 in the Denver, South Park and Pacific; it paid out $10,000,000 to Jay Gould and his associates for branch lines and other investments which were worthless, and which were unloaded upon the Union Pacific because of the faithlessness of the management of the company. What assurance, then, can there be that the company in the future will pay any greater heed to the obligations imposed upon it by Congress than it has in the past? The gross mismanagement of the Union Pacific and the other Pacific railroads has not only injured the credit of American railroads among investors in this country, but it has shaken the faith of foreign investors to such an extent that hundreds of millions of dollars, which otherwise would have been sent here for investment and aided in the development of the country, have been locked up abroad. The foreign investor looked upon these Pacific railroads as being under Government auspices. They received a Government loan; they made annual reports to the Government, and, in addition to these requirements, the Government had a representation of five directors in the Union Pacific management. The good faith of the country was, therefore, presumed to be back of these Pacific railroad securities.

A TAX OF $4,000,000 A YEAR FOR 50 YEARS.

"The present capitalization and indebtedness of the Union Pacific Railway represents triple the cost of its reproduction. To extend the debt is to place a mortgage upon the earnings and upon the products of the people of Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado, not only of this but of succeeding generations. Why should the iniquitous results of the Credit Mobilier be made a burdensome exaction upon the generations that come after it? To extend the debt is to perpetuate the extortionate rates of transportation which are now charged by the Union Pacific for the maintenance of its present inflated capitalization. Why should the communities of the great West be forced to pay rates that will perpetuate this enormous burden of fictitious and fraudulent indebtedness? To continue the Union Pacific in its present condition is to force the territory which is tributary to that line to pay fixed charges of $8,000,000 per annum, exclusive of dividends to stockholders. If that line were capitalized on a proper basis the sum of $4,000,000 would pay interest. To extend the debt, therefore, is to tax the western people, through high rates, not only to pay interest for 50 years on the Government debt at the rate of at least $2,000,000 a year, but to pay interest also on the other fictitious capital that is represented in the stocks and bonds of the Union Pacific at the rate of $2,000,000 a year additional, or a total of $4,000,000 a year for 50 years. Would it not be an abuse of its power for Congress to give more consideration to stockholders who are legatees of a gigantic fraud rather than to the people who are forced to ship over the road, and who have been taxed for 18 years to sustain that corporation? The whole question resolves itself into a choice of protecting the so-called innocent stockholder as against the consumers, who pay $36,000,-000 a year to the Union Pacific for transportation service. The people of the West should be freed from the incubus of this enormous load. Eventually the consuming classes, and not the stockholders, must pay this bill if extension of time be granted, and it will be ruinous to the communities which are dependent on the Union Pacific if they are forced to bear their share of this great burden, while communities on other roads bear only the burdens of moderate capitalization. So long as the Union Pacific Railway Company is forced to carry this debt enterprise and development along its line will be measurably repressed.

FORFEITURE OF CHARTER.

The extension being unwise and impracticable, there is only one course open to Congress, and that is an immediate winding up of the affairs of all the companies, enabling the Government to withdraw at once from all connection with the running of railroads, or sharing in the profits of their management. There ought to be an end to the partnership between the Government and the Pacific railroads; a speedy and absolute divorce. The only method by which this result can be reached is that which was suggested by Justice Hunt in the Credit Mobilier cases. It is the alternative pointed out by the Wilson Committee of Congress in the event of the failure of the equity proceedings in the United States Courts. It is the course that Congress directed the Attorney-General, by resolution of April 10, 1869 (section 4), to take against the Union Pacific, that is, the forfeiture of the charter.

ANTICIPATING A DEFAULT.

The beginning of proceedings at this time to cause the forfeiture of the charters of these companies because of their violations of law and failure to keep their contract with the Government is only to anticipate by a few years the result which will be inevitable when the bonds mature in 1895 and 1897. To wait until then before instituting legal proceedings would not avert the result, but would further jeopardise the interests of the Government and increase the amount of indebtedness. It should be borne in mind that it is a fact admitted by every officer of these roads who testified before the commission, and overwhelmingly proved by the evidence submitted, that the payment of the debts at maturity, in 1895 and 1897, can under no circumstances be expected. The railroad officials, the Commissioners and every intelligent citizen concur in the correctness of this statement.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS.

"Upon forfeiture, the appointment of a receiver should be applied for to provide for the immediate settlement of the Government's debt. This course involves no actuarial computations or involved legal problems. It is the direct path to the complete solution of a tangle into which the Government should never have been drawn. In addition to the recommendation of the forfeiture of the charters, I would suggest that, through the receiver to be appointed for the Union Pacific, a suit be instituted with like purpose to that begun in 1873 against the Credit Mobilier, and that the Attorney-General be instructed to institute proceedings, either civil or criminal, against all persons who have rendered themselves liable for their participation in the issue of stock or the making of mortgages or pledges upon the property or future earnings of the Union Pacific Company without leave of Congress; against those who violated their trusts in connection with the consolidation of the Kansas Pacific, Denver Pacific and Union Pacific in January, 1880; against all persons who have rendered themselves liable through the maladministration of the Central Pacific, Sioux City and Pacific and Central Branch Union Pacific; against telegraph and express companies, to secure an accounting to the Government for earnings on business done on bond-aided lines, and to require an accounting for lands improperly acquired from the Government, and to force the patenting of lands already granted to the companies. In applying the remedies necessary for securing the Government's indebtedness, the Attorney-General should proceed against all persons and corporations who, in any way, were parties to or participants in the results of any of the illegal and fraudulent acts which have characterized the management of these corporations and resulted in the waste and misappropriation of the funds of the companies and consequent depreciation of the Government security."

THE SOLID SOUTH.

WHITE MAN'S GOVERNMENT IN LOUISIANA.

Observations of a California Statesman Recently Returned from the South—The Methods of the Dominant Party.

By far the most useful element in the Democratic party at this time is its southern wing. Under the present régime the representatives of the "solid South" get the best part of the "spoils of office," and it cannot be denied that they deserve it. To the victors belong the spoils, and the South were certainly the victors. The North has been reconstructed, and it the South that was reconstructed it.

For some time past, observers of political statistics have noticed that southern Congressmen are coming to Washington under elections showing a popular vote often as low as 5000, while gentlemen from northern States with much under three times that many, are apt to find themselves left at home. It seems that this curious anomaly was taken advantage of by Republican speakers in the late State campaign in Ohio, and was cited as an evidence that the colored vote has been in some manner eliminated from the ballot-box, while strictly utilized as a basis of representation. The fact of the serious shortage of the vote was too obvious to be disputed, and northern Democrats, being unable to question the figures, were driven to inventing reasons for the startling reduction in the vote.

In their fright lest some straggling Democrat might believe that the law of the land had taken even the ex-slave out of the category of pigs and mules, and invested him with some of the rights of humanity, and that being deprived of these rights was a wrong, the ecclate and time-honored Thurman was brought forth from that retirement to which he had been consigned by the money of the Standard Oil Company, the dust brushed off him, and he was set upon the stump at Kenton, O., to give his explanation of a fact that seems to explain itself. Here is what the great chief said on that occasion:

"Why, one favorite argument they make against us, is that it takes more votes in the North to elect a member of Congress than it does in the South; that here in Ohio, for instance, it takes 30,000, maybe 40,000, votes to elect a Congressman, while in Georgia it does not take half as many. Why, does not everybody who knows the history of the country understand that? This is the reason. When the South gets an able man in Congress they keep him there, knowing full well that the longer he stays there the better he will be able to serve them and the more good he can do them.

[Applause. Referring doubtless to Paine's defeat of Thurman.]

"Now, naturally enough, when it is understood that the same man is to be reelected, the people don't care to turn out. And that is the reason the southern Congressmen get such a small vote! There is nothing strange in that whatever.

"But the Republicans would have us believe," continues Judge Thurman, "that it is because the negroes don't vote. That they are terrorized, or to put it in their own elegant language, are 'bulldozed,' and that keeps the negroes from voting!

"But if the negroes are maltreated, butchered by wholesale, as they say, why in God's name do they prefer to stay there? Why don't they come to Ohio, where they won't be bulldozed? I want somebody to answer me that. [Applause.] Why do they prefer to stay where they were born, and where they have lived? Do you believe if they were so maltreated they would do it? No, my friends, it won't do!"

This is from Judge Thurman's speech at Kenton, O. This is the kind of talk great leading Democrats are willing to be responsible for rather than lose votes. Of the cold-blooded and heartless wickedness of demanding that men as poor as the mass of the ex-slaves of the South, must expatriate themselves, must leave the land where they were born and have always lived, as the sole and only admissible proof that they are not maltreated; that because they submit to disfranchisement rather than go into voluntary exile, disproves their claim of oppression, we shall say nothing.

The proposition is so atrocious as to carry on its face its own refutation.

There is somewhere a story of a great lady of the French noblesse, who on hearing, during the early stages of the French revolution, that the people were suffering from scarcity of bread, wondered why they did not eat cake.

If they are not allowed to vote, says Judge Thurman, in effect, why do they not clear out and go somewhere else?

Why don't they come to Ohio? Seven millions of men to go to Ohio, in order to convince Judge Thurman and the Democracy that they are bulldozed, and not allowed their rights under the laws of the land! Only think of it!

That such a man as Judge Thurman should be driven to so absurd a proposition, is a most significant fact.

And if one may believe the printed report of the speech in the Cincinnati Enquirer, a Democratic paper of unquestioned reliability, from the applause bestowed upon the great chief by his enthusiastic audience, it is plain that he must have convinced the Democrats of Ohio, that the negroes of the South are not deprived of their rights under the Constitution, but vote freely and have their votes duly and fairly counted.

But it is a curious fact that at the very moment when Judge Thurman was making these statements, an active political campaign was actually going on in the State of Louisiana, in which the colored vote took no more account than the votes of the people of Thibet or Madagascar.

That campaign is for a complete set of State officers for the State of Louisiana, and is going on at this moment.

The political pot is boiling in that State, and waxes hot and furious. Mass meetings are held every night, in one county or another; torchlight processions are the order of the day in the large cities, and every device known to politics is being utilized to bring the voters, whoever they are, to the polls. Any American citizen from the North, who happens to be in Louisiana at this moment, would believe that the nominees of the great parties are already in the field and the election itself but a very few days off.

But he would be entirely mistaken. These appeals to voters, these speeches from the stump, these processions and barbecues and mass meetings over the State are not preliminary to a regular, but to a mere Democratic primary, election!

But inasmuch as that primary election practically settles the question of the entire personnel of the State administration for the next term, naturally enough all the stir and electioneering and parades and marching and countermarching and election work, that in this part of the Union would precede a general election, in the South takes place before the primary election.

In one word, in order to keep the negroes from voting, in order to maintain the Democratic party in power, and for no other purpose, it is boldly proclaimed, in the cotton States, that the primary election has been substituted for and made to take the place of the general election.

It is a common statement of northern Democrats, made in our hearing every day, and very likely believed by many of them, that the negroes of the cotton States have found that their true interests are with their old masters and that they are to a considerable extent voting with them. In short, that a great many negroes have turned Democrats, and for reasons at least satisfactory to themselves, vote the Democratic ticket.

The election now going on in Louisiana should settle that question if there had ever been any doubt about it.

The campaign now going on is between Gen. McEnery, who seeks a third term, and ex-Gov. Nicholls, who is trying to beat him for the office; of course inside the party.

It is agreed that the result of the primary will settle the matter, and the general election as usual shall be nothing more than an empty ratification of the outcome of the preliminary skirmish. For that purpose the "grand old party" in Louisiana has been divided into what are called factions. Each faction, so the "call" provides, shall have the right to have commissioners, that is election officers, to protect its interests, and no element shall be considered a "faction" unless it presents a list containing the signatures of at least 100 bona-fide voters of the ward or polling precinct.

But the qualification for voters, as provided by the State Central Committee, shows who are meant by bona-fide voters. It is published in the New Orleans Picayune of the 6th of November, 1887. This is it: "The election shall be participated in only by white persons, well known as true Democratic conservative voters, and that every voter shall have the right to challenge any voter who may attempt to vote fraudulently or may be connected with the Republican party!"

The New Orleans papers are each morning filled with the speeches of the rival candidates, McEnery and Nicholls.

The Nicholls men, calling themselves reformers, accuse the McEnerylites of being a set of currupt "ringsters," who are trying to perpetuate themselves in office. On the other hand, the McEnery men have retorted that Nicholls intends to try to get the colored men to come to the polls once more and to get into office in that way.

The blow is a staggerer, and has put Nicholls on the defensive. He must disprove this or his defeat is inevitable.

In support of these charges against Nicholls, McEnery in a carefully prepared speech made at Monroe, on the 13th of October, and published broadcast over the State, goes back to the time when Nicholls was Governer, and quotes a portion of his message of 1879, in which he censures certain "gentlemen from Tensas and Natchitoches parishes, who it seems, had during the campaign of that year, in the night time, gone with a party of 95 men to the house of a colored politician of the name of Fairfax, and broken up a Republican meeting and killed some of the people found there, as Nicholls believed and had so stated in his message to the Legislature, "killed them for political purposes."

This was, it seems, a most unfortunate admission for a white Democrat to make, for it was taken up in the North, and Senator Teller quoted Nicholls's message as proof of the fact of this bulldozing expedition, in which the "gentlemen from Tensas and Natchitoches parishes were engaged, and of its results. Now McEnery brings it up with terrific effect against the unfortunate Nicholls. Here is what he says of it in his Monroe speech:

"The revolution of 1876 did not stop with the events of that day!" (It will be observed that the bulldozing suppression of the Republicans in 1876, by which it was intended to carry that State by force and blood for Tilden, and which, through the weakness of Hayes, did succeed in putting in Nicholls, is now called in the South the 'revolution of 1876!') 'The people of Tensas Natchitoches and Caddo, had to place themselves in line with Democratic North Louisiana.' 'The same feelings and impulses which gave rise to the great movement throughout Louisiana in 1876, influenced the people of those parishes to overthrow the same despotism in 1878.' Gov. Nicholls may or may not have sympathized with the Tensas and Natchitoches prisoners; his feelings are not matters of importance, if the people were justified in 1876 in their revolution against oppression and wrong, so were they justified in 1878."

This failure to sympathize with the gentlemen bulldozers of Tensas and Natchitoches is damaging enough to poor Nicholls, but his adversary, in rummaging over the proceedings of the Hayes commission, has discovered that in an answer to some question put by Wayne McVeigh, there occurs the following statement, signed by the unlucky Nicholls with his own proper sign manual. It contains enough treason to the South to defeat Jeff Davis himself if he were a candidate. It is printed in the New Orleans Times-Democrat in special italics, which that journal declares to be its own, and reads as follows:

"I am thoroughly satisfied that any course of political action traced on a narrower line than the good of the whole people, regardless of color or condition, must inevitably lead to disaster and ruin.

I have earnestly sought to obliterate the color line in politics, and consolidate the people on the basis of equal rights and common interests, and it is a source of gratification to say that this great object is about to be realized.

"FRANCIS T. NICHOLLS."

Having proved by the record that Nicholls did in 1876 utter these atrocious sentiments, having pilloried him in plain view of a justly indignant public, he proceeds to scarify him as follows:

"Has Gov. Nicholls changed his opinions since this declaration was officially made? Has he fixed an unalterable opinion on the great question which is presented to us now, and which we will have to solve—whether this still remains a white man's government and a white man's civilization? I believe with that eminent divine, Dr. Palmer, that God Almighty has Himself drawn the color-line, and that our civilization has to be worked out by white brains, white muscle and white sympathies, and that the other race must work out its redemption in the line appointed by Providence under the leadership and direction of the white race."

It seems that Nichols is trying to take to himself some credit for the "glorious revolution of 1876," by which the Republicans were overthrown, in spite of the Federal troops, and the Democratic party placed finally in power. But nothing of this will the gallant McEnery admit. In his opinion, "it was not Nichols that caused the revolution to succeed." "It was the determination of the people of Louisiana (and now, just as before the war, the people of the South must always be understood as the white people); who prepared to resist the Federal Government, and did resist it, and forced it to surrender and abandon the negro to the white man, his late master."

Here is how Gov. McEnery, 1887, talks to the people of the events of 1886. I select it from his speech at Monroe, October 14th, delivered to a Democratic mass-meeting.

"The Nicholls government became a fixed fact from the moment the authorities at Washington realized the terrible earnestness of our people (known white conservative Democrats understood), and that the temper of the people (known white conservative Democrats again understood) was such that it would be dangerous to tamper with it, and that no other government than the one they had elected would be tolerated, a government born of your patriotic hearts and inaugurated by your strong right arms!"

The excellent Governor of Louisiana grows eloquent when he recounts how, in 1876, the Democrats put down the Federal power in his State and inaugurated the Democratic party.

Here is what did it. We quote from his Monroe speech:

"When Federal troops were ordered to Monroe in order to destroy the good work done by the Democrats; when negroes gathered from every plantation at mass meetings under protection of Federal guns, the people of Ouachita (conservative known white Democrats, of course), who had become desperate, deputed Capt. Theobalds, with a well chosen force, to put a stop to this marauding and political marching of Federal troops.

"The negroes gathered in almost untold numbers at St. James' Chapel. The Federal troops were there under their officers, and consisted of two companies of infantry. Theobalds had two well armed companies of riflemen. He announced to the Federal officer that henceforth no more political campaigning would be permitted with Federal troops! With flashing sabre and angry voice the Federal officer proclaimed that that was a Republican meeting, and that he was there to protect it. Said Theobalds: "If you interfere here today I will sweep you and your command from off the face of the earth!" [Tremendous applause.] From that time we had no further interference from Federal troops. They quietly camped inside of our picket line."

What does the United States Army think of that?

"It was not for his success in putting down the Republicans, not because of his identification with any of these stirring events," says McEnery, "that Nicholls was brought to the front, but because of his Confederate record and maimed condition, to arouse the sympathies of the people (known conservative white Democrats understood) and enlist them in one united and concerted effort.

"We all recollect his unwillingness to continue an aggressive campaign, by which alone Louisiana could be saved. Had his advice been followed our redemption would have been long deferred."

Nicholls, it seems, had conducted the campaign at Natchitoches on conservative plans of operations as he (Nicholls) understood them, and wanted the rest of the State to do likewise—that is, not to bulldoze, but to use moral suasion instead.

"But," says McEnery, "at Natchitoches, where Nicholls had matters in charge, and acted within the law (no bulldozing) the radicals polled their entire strength.

"The contest for our liberation had been fought and won (by Theobalds and his methods, and no thanks to Nicholls) strictly on the color line. The negroes had drawn it, the carpet-baggers used it, and we accepted the issue and broke it into fragments, with the full belief that we were establishing a white man's government."—McEnery at Monroe.

The speeches of Nicholls and his friends, especially Gen. Gibson, ex-United States Senator, will serve to show what kind of platform eloquence Democratic orators think most likely to enthuse the party and to get votes in the South. When Republicans make similar reference to exploits of the late war they are accused of waving the "bloody shirt."

We will quote from the speech of Gen. Gibson, made at Union Parish, La., on the 5th of November, 1887, clipped from the New Orleans Picayune of the 6th.

Ex-Senator Gibson was introduced to the audience by the chairman, J. A. Ramsay, with the following eulogistic remarks, which were received with great applause: "I present to you a man who was with our people from 1863 to 1865; who led the boys in gray in battle, and on the march etc., etc."

Gen. Gibson, in the course of his remarks, said: "I have heard with regret some of the leading men in this State declare before the people that the question today in Louisiana was a race issue! Why, that is not the question today in Louisiana! That issue is buried in the past! It was settled many years ago; you know it! The negroes in this State today have a deep-seated contempt for both the carpet-bagger and the scallawag, and they are trusting the white people, and are perfectly contented under a white man's government. Some of these speakers go so far as to say that Gen. Nicholls, our friend, intends to Africanize the State. I don't believe that a gentleman in this vast audience can look him in the face and say that he believes that! His whole life is an answer to that charge! His armless sleeve, his empty pantaloon are eloquent answers! Were the soldiers under Jackson and Lee fighting to abolish slavery? Fellow soldiers; I see some of you here who honored me with their comradeship on many a weary march and hard-fought battle. I ask you, were you fighting to abolish slavery?

"Did we go forth and devote four years of our life to destroying slavery and to the Africanization of the South?

"We have not heard of the Abolitionists of the North erecting a monument to Lee or Jackson, or of honoring 'our old chief, Jefferson Davis, God bless him, who still lives!'

"What was the system represented by Nicholls when he was Governor? It was a white man's government! Have you had any other since his triumph? Are not a white man's government and a Democratic government identical?

"Now, fellow-citizens, if these speeches of those distinguished leaders were heard by only the people of Louisiana (by people known true conservative white Democrats, meaning,), they could not have much weight and influence, but we live in the day of telegraphs and the press, and when a Senator or a Governor of the State, like Gov. McEnery, declares that questions relating to a race conflict in this State are the leading questions before the people; that the agitations and excitements in society and the political contentions relate to a race issue, and that the necessities of the hour compel us to use instrumentalities that would be condemned under ordinary circumstances in order to preserve the ascendancy of the Democratic party, their words cross the Potomac and the Ohio! They are disseminated among the northern people, and the Republican leaders use the testimony of these gentlemen to convict the southern people of the accusation that a large majority of the vote in the South is suppressed by violence!

"The effect of these ill-timed and unnecessary speeches is to weaken the gallant, generous, heroic Democracy of the North; to sap and undermine the very pillars of this great old party, which has stood by us in our efforts and our struggles to secure self-government! I regret that the remarks should have been made by the speakers who are accompanying Gov. McEnery on his tour, not because they are going to have any effect on the audiences in Union parish or any other parish in the State, but because they will affect the populations in the North, where we need recruits for the Democratic party, to preserve this party which has been with us in every respect the party of personal liberty, of States' rights!"

Is not that giving away the whole business?

The gentleman who said this is now a Senator of the United States. That is what we would call here in California "giving the whole business away!" He distinctly admits what his opponent, Gov. McEnery, asserts, that the negroes have been bulldozed, that the United States army was defeated by the Louisiana riflemen and a revolution accomplished, whereby a white man's government took the place of a government of the whole people; that a white man's government and Democratic government are identical, but he says keep quiet, don't give it away, lest the people of the North find out what we are doing; that they want recruits for that great old party; that such ill-timed and unnecessary speeches may be to weaken the gallant, generous heroic Democracy of the North, which has stood by us, the party of States' rights and personal liberty.

The Democratic primary that is to settle whether Gov. McEnery or ex-Gov. Nicholls is to be Governor of Louisiana for the next term was fixed for yesterday, the 5th of January, the convention to be held at Baton Rouge on the 10th inst. This is McEnery's third term, and Nicholls would have had a good chance to beat him, but the charge, made early in the canvass, that he was willing to accept negro votes, taken along with some resurrected speeches of his interpreted as showing his willingness to permit the colored vote to exercise its constitutional rights, will undoubtedly "down him," and he is already as good as beaten. It is in vain that he points to his scars gained in fighting for the Lost Cause. It will not save him. The South demands a "white man's government," and Nicholls, though favorable to it, must go. When the general election is to take place we are not informed, nor is it of any consequence. The contest ends with this primary. As in Louisiana a general election only begins when the polls are closed, we await events.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA is represented on the House committees by Gen. Vandever, who is on the Coinage, Weights and Measures Committee.

RUSSIA is now trying to make friends with England. That would be a remarkable combination, but stranger things have happened in European politics.

THE railroads of the Southern Pacific system owe for State and county taxes for 1887, $648,000, which they refuse to pay. The Atlantic and Pacific and California Southern companies paid their taxes when due.

THE New Year's edition of the San José Mercury, consisting of 24 large pages, is about as handsome a paper as the State has produced this season. It is a credit to the beautiful city in which it is published, and a credit to its publisher, Mr. Shortridge.

IT IS a common thing for new arrivals to remark upon the crowded condition of our principal streets, and express astonishment when informed that our population is not over 65,000. Few cities in the Union can show such lively thoroughfares as those of Los Angeles.

WE are having some rather unpleasant weather for pedestrians, but it is delightful in comparison with that which they are experiencing in many parts of the United States. The fact is that the inhabitants of this favored section become spoiled by Nature's favors. Whenever the sun don't shine brilliantly for a few hours we are apt to feel aggrieved. A mid-winter trip to the East would be good medicine for some of our growlers.

THE Police Commissioners are on the right track in starting in to close up some of the disreputable saloons of this city, that serve as headquarters for criminals. If one-half the energy expended here in aiming at impossibilities had been directed toward securing a proper regulation of the saloon traffic, much good might have been accomplished. The owners of respectable liquor establishments are themselves in favor of strict regulations and a license sufficiently high to put out those low groggeries, which are breeding places of crime.

THE amount of $150,000 allowed for the Los Angeles Federal building looks very small in comparison with the amounts asked for by other cities. Thus Milwaukee presents a bill—which has been favorably reported—calling for $1,200,000 for a building; Omaha, $1,500,000; New Orleans, $1,500,000; Kansas City, $1,000,000 for "an addition" to its building, and Detroit for a increased appropriation of $500,000. Among the smaller cities bills have been introduced granting Salem, Or., and Columbus, Ga., $150,000; Charlotte, Neb. (a city of 11,000 inhabitants), $100,000; Zanesville, O., $150,000; Jacksonville, Fla., $275,000; Davenport, Iowa, $300,000; Bay City, Mich., $250,000, and Pueblo, Colo., $100,000. The grand total asked for public buildings is $10,241,000. In view of such figures as these it would certainly seem that the Los Angeles appropriation might, in justice, be raised to $500,000.

The Railway Commissioners' Reports.

THE TIMES publishes today in full the majority and minority reports of the Pacific Railroad Commission. The former is filed by Commissioners Anderson and Littler, and the latter by Commissioner Pattison.

Experience has taught the public to expect little from these investigating commissions, which seldom amount to more than junketing trips, at the expense of the people. But little surprise was therefore felt when it was found that the outcome of this commission's labors was, on the whole, favorable to the railroad. The fact which cropped out, during the investigation at San Francisco, that the commissioners had borrowed $4000 of the railroad company, was not very encouraging. Such a proceeding would seem, to the outsider, about as dignified as the action of a judge who would borrow money from a prisoner at the bar. It is true that the majority report contains some severe strictures upon former managements of the roads, but that does not affect the present issue.

The majority report, after condemning perversions of trust by Gould, Sage and other former directors of the Union Pacific, and by Stanford, Huntington, Crocker and Hopkins of the Central Pacific, states that the control and ownership has passed out of the hands of those responsible for the frauds, and that everything at present seems lovely, the present management being honest and conscientious. The condition of the property receives words of praise, and then comes the milk in the cocoanut, in the shape of a draft of a bill, which must be highly satisfactory to the parties chiefly interested. According to the bill, the time for the payment of the debt due the Government is extended 50 years, the roads to execute a formal mortgage to the Government, which now has only a statutory lien; the debt to be funded at 3 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually directly into the United States Treasury, but the roads to have the privilege of taking up any part of the debt in advance; the roads to provide a sinking fund of one-half of 1 per cent. annually upon the total amount of their debt to the Government for 10 years, and the trustees then to provide for proper per centum payments to the sinking fund.

The minority report of ex-Gov. Pattison is a long document, and contains some eloquent figures. It recites the grant of subsidy bonds, amounting to $64,000,000 to six railroads, afterward reduced to four, which formed parts of the original scheme of communication between the Missouri River and the Pacific Ocean. It shows the payment of interest by the Government on these bonds for 30 years, amounting to $114,000,000, and grants of land from which they have already realized $39,000,000, with lands worth $26,000,000 yet unsold, the receipt of aid from other sources of $3,000,000, and he also estimates that the companies had the advantage of the use of $200,000,000, representing the use of the Government's annual advances of nearly $4,000,000, which the companies are not required to pay until the maturity of the subsidy bonds in 1895-'99. He calculates the total aid thus extended to the roads to have been $447,000,000. The commission says that the roads were built for less than $96,000,000. but they issued stock and bonds representing a total of $268,000,000. The Commissioner then says that nearly every obligation which these corporations assumed under the laws of the United States, or as common carriers, have been violated.

Their management has been a national disgrace. Since the date of their inception they have been conducted upon a purely speculative basis. The aided companies combined with others to tax the communities which they served, and they forced the consuming classes in all sections of the country to contribute to the payment of interest and dividend upon a fictitious capital which they had created. They discriminated between individuals, between localities and between articles. They favored particular individuals and companies. They exerted terrorism over merchants and over communities, thus interfering with the lawful pursuits of the people. They participated in election contests. By secret cuts and violent and rapid fluctuations in rates they menaced business, paralyzed capital and retarded investment and development. He contends that by reason of overcharges and erroneous reports the Government has suffered losses on these accounts amounting to $8,000,000.

In computing the operations of the various lines the Commissioner cites that the profits or net earnings have been $278,000,000, or $15,000,000 a year. The commissioner declares that Stanford, Huntington, Hopkins and Crocker diverted the earnings of the Central Pacific through contracts made by themselves with themselves for construction, leases and repairs, and divided over $142,000,000 in cash and securities; that 15 months ago, as directors, they contracted with themselves to build the California and Oregon road, a distance of 103 miles, the cost of which was $3,500,000, and paid themselves with $8,000,000 in stock and $4,500,000 in bonds, and, according to the market value of the stock and bonds at that time, they turned to their credit nearly $5,000,000.

He cites that the aided companies have paid $5,000,000 for legal expenses, $140,000,000 for interest, $63,000,000 for dividends, and in 18 years have paid the Government $31,000,000 toward a matured debt of $140,000,000 up to December 31, 1886. He declares that the Central, Kansas and Union Pacific roads have always evaded local taxation, and cites that a special session of the California Legislature had to be called to devise methods to enforce the tax against the Central Pacific. He claims that if the roads had been honestly managed they would now be entirely free from debt.

In conclusion, Commissioner Pattison objects to the extension of time suggested by the majority report, contending that the debt would not be paid by pursuing this course, and urges a forfeiture of charter and the appointment of a receiver to sell the roads and reimburse the Government for the money it has advanced. The minority report places the Southern Pacific of Kentucky in a very unenviable light. The facts produced are well known to all upon this coast who have given the subject any attention, although such startling figures will doubtless come in the nature of a revelation to the Nation at large. It remains to be seen how effective an aroused public opinion may prove with our legislators, in face of those means which this wealthy corporation knows so well how to use.

AMUSEMENTS.

"DOROTHY" AT THE GRAND.—Last night a third generous house greeted the week's favorites. Expectation ran high over the new opera, Dorothy, which was given its first presentation. Nothing could have been chosen more delightful in itself or better suited to the Carleton Company, which, indeed, suits its well-balanced self to any music.

Dorothy is a perfect little pastoral, full of sweet airs and melodies, composed with exquisite taste and thorough musical skill. Here and there a graver or more serious strain is heard for a background, but the impression of the whole opera is one of skilful simplicity, the very artlessness of art. To mention especially good numbers would include nearly every solo and concerted piece, but those which gave the chiefest satisfaction were the song for "Harry Sherwood" in the first act, the "Goodnight" sextette and the serenade by Mr. Carleton as "Geoffrey Wilder" in the second; not to omit Mr. Dren's song of the "Sheriff's b'officer," where his pronunciation of certain unctuous syllables "was alone worth the price of admission." Miss Post as "Dorothy," "piquant pert and pouting pet," and Fannie Rice as "Cousin Lydia," alike, only more so, surpassed themselves. Miss Post's really fine voice for the first time sustained her reputation as a singer, doing without strain or effort the trying numbers of a high soprano, while Miss Rice did away with the necessity of a voice with her own unexplainable but distinctly certain manner. Mr. Carleton's only marked solo, the "Serenade," was given with unusual refinement and delicacy, and will doubtless make the song a favorite everywhere that Dorothy's faithful swain carries it.

Miss Wilson will be first in the hearts of her country-women for her devotion with which she conceals her fine face behind a comic masque, and realizes the precious fact that humor is as grateful and much rarer than beauty.

Dorothy is a precious addition to the list of light operas, and those who were not there last night should strive without ceasing for a seat at the afternoon performance, while a second hearing would discover its softer beauties.

Tonight the house will be packed to see the ever undying Mikado.

HAZARD'S PAVILION.—Last night the Webster-Brady company gave East Lynne to the best house since Monday night. The management is making great preparations for Under the Gaslight Saturday night, and will give the old standby at their last performance Sunday evening.

MEN AND WOMEN OF THE STATE.

Charles M. Livingston and wife of Ontario spent the holidays at San Bernardino.

Gen. W. D. McComb has gone to Hesperia to look after the interests of the company.

W. W. Douglas, the Governor's executive secretary, left San Bernardino for Sacramento on Tuesday.

Don Jose Morgan, an old-time citizen of Santa Barbara, and who for a few years past has been mining in Southern and Lower California and the northern States of Mexico, arrived last week on a short visit to his old home.

Joseph Lansing.

Joseph Lansing, the youthful burglar who was arrested Wednesday night, and in whose possession Officer Reel's stolen revolver was found, was yesterday morning brought into Justice Austin's court for trial. On account, however, of the absence of important witnesses for the State, and the probabilities being in favor of there being some other cases of burglary and grand larceny brought forward in which Lansing has also figured, the case was continued until this morning at 10 o'clock.

Some of the more astute officers of the police force are of the opinion that when Lansing's antecedents are inquired into it will be discovered that he is either one of a large gang of burglars and grand larcenists, or their tool, used to dispose of stolen goods so as to throw suspicion away from the principals. In the past few days several burglaries have been committed.

A Hard Gang.

Charles Cavanaugh was yesterday arrested on a complaint sworn to by Thomas Bastian, charging the former with having committed a burglary at the Southern Hotel and Restaurant on January 4th. A large amount of goods and various articles of dress and jewelry had been missed from the Southern Hotel, and for some time the thief could not be detected. Finally, however, suspicion was directed to Cavanaugh, and it was discovered that some of the missing articles were in his possession, and a complaint was at once secured and a warrant issued for his arrest. From what has been already discovered in relation to this affair, there is but little doubt but what Cavanaugh is another member of the gang which has infested Los Angeles for some time past, and by his arrest and that of Lansing and one or two others who are now under suspicion, and for whom warrants have been issued, it is probable the whole gang will be broken up and demoralized.

Monkeying with an Officer.

A few days since, while Officer Lehart was making an arrest, William Moreno, driver of an express wagon, interfered with the officer, and when also put under arrest, resisted and put the officer to as much trouble as possible. When finally taken to the station, the officer in charge, not reflecting that resisting an officer constituted a felony, allowed Moreno to go at liberty upon his depositing $5 for his appearance.

Of course, Moreno, who, it is said, has already served a term in San Quentin, failed to put in an appearance. A warrant was then issued for his arrest, and he was yesterday captured by Deputy Constable Roberts and brought before Justice Austin.

Moreno asked for time, in which to prepare for trial, and his case is now set for Saturday, January 7th, at 9:30 a.m., bail being fixed at $100.

Their Trouble.

There is a great kick in East Los Angeles, and with good reason too, about a Chinese laundry on Water street above Downey avenue. This laundry is on low ground, and the waste water, laden with the most offensive odors, gathers in pools and evaporates some of the most disagreeable effluvia that a human sense of smell is ever subjected to, and so widespread is its effects that they feel them six or seven blocks distant. One not familiar with the cause is at a loss to know what kind of calamity it is. It is certainly unhealthful as well as disagreeable. There is no sewerage at or very near that point. This is a good subject for the authorities to investigate, and thereby win the gratitude of many east-siders.

East Los Angeles G.A.R.

The installation of the following newly-elected officers of Gelcich Woman's Relief Corps will take place at Campbell's Hall, East Los Angeles, tomorrow afternoon: President, Mrs. Kate Horner; Senior Vice-President, Mrs. Mary Weeks; Junior Vice-President, Mrs. Lydia Atherton; Secretary, Mrs. Carrie Soule; Treasurer, Miss Lily Barraclough; Conductor, Mrs. Kate Spear; Assistant Conductor, Miss Lizzie Perman; Guard, Miss Anna Ells; Assistant Guard, Mrs. Hamilton.

REVERSED.

Supreme Court's Ruling in the Bell Libel Case.

The Defendants Thornton and Stephens Granted a New Trial.

The Court's Decision Rendered by Justice Sharpstein.

Several Errors Found in the Trial Before the Los Angeles Court—Justice McKinstry Delivers a Dissenting Opinion, in which McFarland and Thornton Concur.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—[Special.] In his opinion in the libel case of The People vs. Thornton and Stephens, on appeal from the lower court of Los Angeles county, Judge Sharpstein of the Supreme Court says substantially as follows:

"Defendants were tried for libel and convicted. They moved for a new trial, which was denied, and from the judgment and order denying the new trial they have appealed. One of the grounds on which they moved for a new trial is that 'the jury separated without leave of the Court after retiring to deliberate.' In The People vs. Brannigan (21 Cal., 337) the Court held that it was empowered to grant a new trial 'when the jury have separated without leave of the Court after retiring to deliberate upon a verdict or have been guilty of any misconduct tending to prevent a fair and due consideration of the case.' In that case it appears that while the jury had the case under consideration, and before agreeing upon a verdict, they were taken by the officer who had them in charge to a hotel opposite the room where they were deliberating to get their dinner, and while there the proprietor of the hotel spoke to some of the jurors, and told them to convict the defendant. This, the Court says, was a mere passing remark of the proprietor of the hotel, which, however improper, did not constitute misconduct of the jury. As we construe the opinion of the Court, the judgment was reversed and the cause remanded for a new trial on the sole ground of the separation of the jury without leave of the Court after retiring to deliberate upon their verdict.

"There has been no change in the law relating to this subject since the decision in The People vs. Brannigan was rendered. The statute upon which the decision was based has since been incorporated into and become part of the Penal Code. The facts held in The People vs. Brannigan to constitute separation of the jury are strikingly similar to those in the case now before us. We do not feel inclined to disturb the rule of that case, which, if applied here, is decisive of the question before us. A new trial on this ground should have been granted, and the order denying it must be reversed.

"While deliberating in the jury room one of the jurors picked up a pamphlet entitled 'The Life of Horace Bell,' and read portions of it to the other jurors. Appellants insist that by doing so the jury received evidence out of court. It appears by the record that the pamphlet was admitted as evidence, and by consent considered as read in evidence, that it might be referred to in the arguments of counsel. It does not appear that it was read to the jury before they retired. The code provides that upon retiring for deliberation the jury may take with them all papers (except depositions) which have been received in evidence (Penal Code, section 1137). Defendant is entitled to a new trial 'when the jury receives any evidence out of court other than that resulting from a view of premises' (Id., subdivision 3). The charge of libel is based upon a single paragraph, which consists of many pages of libelous matter. It is stated in one of the affidavits used in the motion for the new trial that one of defendants' counsel, in his argument to the jury, read some portions of the pamphlet. How much or what portions are not stated. The pamphlet was received in evidence as a whole, while parts of it only were read in the presence of the jury before retiring. If the portions read in the presence of the jury after they had retired were read in their presence before they retired, we think they may have received evidence out of court. As the paragraph upon which the charge of libel is based is one of the mildest of an innumerable number of libels contained in the pamphlet, no part of it could be read without reading a libel very damaging to character. The propriety of permitting the jury, on retiring for deliberation, to take with them said pamphlet was not considered by the Court or counsel. The jury did not take it with them. They found it after they retired. By listening to the reading of it, we think they must have received evidence out of court which on retiring for deliberation they did not take with them. That, in our opinion, entitles defendants to a new trial. The question thus far considered illustrated quite forcibly the danger of any departure by jurors, or officers in charge of them, from the course of conduct prescribed by the code.

"The motion of the defendant's counsel to have the statement of the witness Sumner, that the boy said that Stephens had given him only 20 minutes to do the job in, stricken out, should have been granted. It was hearsay evidence and inadmissable. The record presents no other material error, but for those above specified the judgment and order denying the motion for a new trial must be reversed and the cause remanded for a new trial."

Chief Justice Searls and Judge Temple concurred, and a supplemental concurring opinion was filed by Judge Paterson.

Judge McKinstry, however, files a dissenting opinion, in which Judges McFarland and Thornton concur. He holds that the reading of the "Life of Horace Bell" out of court is not considered a reception of evidence out of court. The affidavit for a new trial, moreover, does not show a separation of the jury, but even if so shown, the rule is firmly established that separation of the jury is but prima facie ground for a new trial. Its effects are always subject to be rebutted by proof. No improper influence reached the jurors. The statement of the witness which the court refused to strike out was made while he was at work in the printing office of one of the defendants upon the pamphlet containing the alleged libelous matter. The declaration was part of the res gestæ, but even if an error, it could not have injured the defendants. W.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—The Examiner's special from Sacramento says: The appropriation of $2500 for special contingent expenses of the Governor's office, known as the Governor's secret service fund, is nearly exhausted. Marcus D. Boruck personally drew $1525 of the amount, the warrants being made out in his name. It is not necessary for the Governor's office to state how this money was expended. The money must be paid on demand. The fund will not be replenished until July.

CRIMINAL CHIPS.

The case of Clara Belle McDonald again came up in Judge Murphy's court this morning, but the defendant did not appear, and her counsel stated that she was detained at home by illness. SUIT FOR SALVAGE.

J. Murry and August Ellert have instituted libel proceedings against George Caleb, W. J. Stone, J. S. Montgomery and J. Williams, and the Mexican International, Pacific and Gulf of California Steamship Company. Caleb, Stone and Montgomery own the brig Tropic Bird, and the steamship company chartered the steamship City of Topeka. The complaint avers that on December 18th the brig broke her anchorage at Ensenada, Mexico, and drifted to sea, where libellants, seamen of the City of Topeka, put off in a small boat, boarded her and brought the brig to safe anchorage. Plaintiffs claim salvage, whereas they received nothing, and assess the value of the brig at $7500.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Dr. Edward Bert, his wife, 17-year-old daughter and servants were chloroformed while asleep in their elegant home on Vernon avenue last night, and were unaware, until they awoke today with aching heads, that the house had been ransacked from top to bottom by burglars. Every room in the house was thoroughly searched, including the boudoir of Miss Bert, but, strangely, nothing is missing save a gold watch worth $350 belonging to the Doctor. Over $18,000 worth of jewelry was left undisturbed.

FORAKER.

Ohio's Governor Assails the President's Message.

COLUMBUS (O.), Jan. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Gov. Foraker's message was read in both houses today. After dealing with State questions it turns to the subject of tariff. Under this head the Governor says:

"It was generally supposed that we had heard the last of free trade, at least for a time; but not so. The recent message of the President of the United States commits his administration and the party he represents to a most unqualified and hostile opposition to the entire principle and plan of the protective policy. He seeks to make it appear that the blow he would strike is aimed only at the manufacturing and wool-growing interests of the country, but it is manifest to all men of intelligence who are acquainted with our condition, that if his propositions prevail the consequences will be disastrous to every industry and every section of our country, and to no class more surely than to our farmers, who must rely chiefly on home markets for the sale of our products, and to our laboring people who depend upon a continuance of that general prosperity that has obtained for the last quarter of a century, for employment at remunerative wages."

LABOR TROUBLES.

The Reading Coal Miners Still on a Strike.

SHAMOKIN, Jan. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The miners' strike went into effect at all the Philadelphia and Reading collieries here except two. CLEVELAND (O.), Jan. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] A span in the new central viaduct now being constructed, and which connects the south side with the city proper, fell this afternoon. It was 90 feet long and 85 feet above ground. There were eight workmen on the span when it fell. The killed were Harry Burton and an unknown man. The wounded were: John Bourdea, burned by steam on the hands and face; Eugene Harlan, slightly injured; Alexander Blank, injured internally; and Charles Qrtiz, engineer, injured internally.

New York Republicans Oppose His Confirmation.

ALBANY, Jan. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The New York Legislature opened today. Gov. Hill's message was exceedingly brief.

The Republican caucus tonight passed a resolution, offered by Assemblyman Platt of Dutchess county, that the nomination of L. Q. C. Lamar to a seat on the Supreme Bench of the United States was an insult to the entire loyal people of the Union, and the caucus demands that the Republican Senators from this State vote against his confirmation.

The Vandalia Election.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 5.—The Vandalia election today was a complete defeat for the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton interest. About 18,000 shares of stock were voted, and cast solidly for the McKeen board, which is the same that existed before the deal with Ives. The only change was the substitution of Ives for Frank Crawford, the former being made a director because he is interested in the pending litigation, and for the reason that he holds enough shares to make him eligible.

Lawlessness in Texas.

The cargo, valued at $95,000, was insured in the Anglo-Nevada and Thomas and Meany Companies. The vessel was owned by parties in Maine, and was fully insured. Her crew consisted of Capt. W. H. Willey, Mates P. H. Sullivan and John Child and 26 seamen. Capt. Willey's wife also accompanied him. All hands are supposed to have been lost.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—It is now known definitely that the vessel wrecked near Waterford, Ireland, was the American ship Fred D. Snow, Captain Willey, which left San Francisco August 3d for Liverpool. The ship was last seen in Herrylock Bay, off Furtherstown, at the entrance to Waterford Harbor. The bodies of the captain and one of the crew have been recovered. There is no doubt that every member of the crew, 25 in number, perished. The ship's papers have been recovered.

A PILOT BOAT SUNK.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—The pilot boat T. H. Allen, with Pilots Barber and Rogers and four sailors aboard, while cruising about nine miles southwest of the Heads last night, was struck by the British bark Sir. William Wallace, from San Pedro to this port, and sunk in 20 fathoms of water. A gale was blowing at the time, and though the men on the Allen had seen the bark and another vessel a short time before, and were making for them at the time. The fog was so thick it was not known they were running close to danger until the collision occurred. The Allen was struck on the port bow and sunk in a few minutes. The men all escaped and were brought here on the Wallace this morning. Loss $12,000.

SLASHED A WOMAN.

How a Chinaman Used His Knife on a Woman.

The case of the people against Ah Sing, in which the defendant is charged with making an assault with a deadly weapon, was called in Justice Austin's court yesterday. It seems that Ah Sing is cook at the Highland Villa, situated on the corner of First and Hill streets, and Miss E. Bath, the prosecuting witness, is a domestic in the same house. A few days ago Miss Bath went into the kitchen during breakfast time and ordered a steak for one of the boarders at the house, and she stated she asked for the meat to be cooked rare, or underdone. Ah Sing insists she told him to cook it well, and accordingly he did so. When the girl came after the steak she at once refused to take it, and a few words passed between them, which ended in the girl calling the Chinaman "a heathen monkey."

This epithet was more than Ah Sing thought he could stand without a kick, so, seizing his trusty meat-axe, he struck Miss Bath on the elbow, inflicting a deep but not very serious wound. The room was at once filled with the shrieks of the wounded help, and the Chinaman was secured and an officer telephoned for to take the heathen to prison. Ah Sing, however, gave bail and was set at liberty until yesterday, when he appeared for trial, accompanied by J. M. Damron as his attorney.

Deputy District Attorney McCabe appeared for the prosecution, and the examination, after taking up three hours of the time of the Court, was then continued till Monday next

Another Message from the President.

He Urges Protection for Round Valley Reservation Indians.

Debate in the Senate on the Pacific Coast's Defenseless Condition.

Speaker Carlisle Appoints the House Committees—The Texas Boundary Question Made the Subject of a Proclamation—Nominations and Appointments.

[By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The President has sent to Congress a communication from the Secretary of the Interior submitting the draft of a bill to provide for the protection of the Round Valley Indian Reservation, in California. The President, in his message transmitting, says:

"The documents thus submitted exhibit extensive and entirely unjustifiable encroachments upon lands set apart for Indian occupancy, and disclose a disregard of Indian rights so long continued that the Government cannot further temporize without dishonor. Efforts to dislodge trespassers upon these lands have in some cases been resisted on the ground that certain moneys due from the Government for improvements have not been paid. So far as this claim is well-founded, a sum necessary to extinguish the debt should be at once appropriated and paid. In other cases the position of these intruders is one of simple and unadorned wrong-doing, plainly questioning the institution of the Government to protect its dependent Indian wards and its inability to maintain itself in the guaranty of such protection. These intruders should forthwith feel the weight of the Government's power. I earnestly commend the situation and wrongs of the Indians occupying, and ask for the bill herewith transmitted careful and prompt consideration."

FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate.—The President's message concerning a right of way for railroad purposes through various Indian reservations, also relating to trespasses, was presented and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Among the petitions presented was one by Mr. Blaine, in favor of a national prohibitory amendment, and one by Mr. Hoar, against the admission of Utah as a State so long as it is in the hands of the Mormon priesthood.

Mr. Davis from the Committee on Indian Affairs reported bills to provide for the compulsory education of Indian children and in relation to marriages between white men and Indian women.

Among the bills introduced were the following:

By Mr. Hoar: To provide for the World's Exposition at the National Capital in 1892, and thereafter a permanent exposition of the three Americas in honor of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America. Referred to the select Committee on Centennial Celebration.

By Mr. Dawes: To establish a postal telegraph system.

By Mr. Platt: For the formation and admission into the Union of the State of North Dakota.

Mr. Mitchell called up the joint resolution introduced by him for the appointment of a commission to select a site for a naval station on the Pacific Coast, and addressed the Senate in advocacy of it. The joint resolution makes it the duty of a commission to examine the coast north of the 42d parallel of north latitude, in Oregon, Washington Territory and Alaska, and to select a suitable site, to have due regard to the commercial and naval necessities of that coast, a navy yard, and to make a full and detailed report to the Secretary of the Navy, to be by him reported to Congress. Mr. Mitchell said that while $66,000,000 had been spent for navy-yards and naval stations, of which amount only 5 per cent. had been expended west of the Alleghany mountains, there was only one navy-yard on the coast, on which about $3,000,000 had been expended. One establishment, no matter how well equipped, was wholly inadequate to meet the wants of the country on the Pacific Ocean. He contrasted with the indifference or criminal neglect of the United States Government on the subject a naval establishment the care given by the British, French, Russian, Italian and German governments to the building up of their naval establishments. It was not safe to act on the theory that this country could, whenever an occasion arose, provide for it. The rapid environment of the Pacific Coast by important military and naval establishments representing British power and the military occupation by Great Britain of islands in the Pacific Ocean was a subject which ought to arrest the attention of the American people and compel the Government to such speedy and effective action as should be a fitting response to this formidable extention of British power. The whole country, north and south, was in fact environed and menaced by a cordon of British military and naval establishments and by lines of British railroads and steamships, which in the event of war between Great Britain and the United States, would give the former immense advantages. These forces would be used with relentless power upon the people and industries and commerce of the northern Pacific Coast. Oregon, Washington Territory and Alaska, with all their riches and resources unprotected, would become the sport and toy of Great Britain. Mr. Dolph said that Puget Sound possessed all the advantages that could be desired for a first-class naval station. The importance of the subject could not be underestimated. His colleague had referred to British influence in the Hawaiian Islands, but the United States cannot permit those islands to pass under the control of any European power, because their possession by any modern naval power would give to that power control not only over the Pacific commerce of the United States, but also over its coast commerce. We could not allow foreign guests and acquisitions to be carried to our very doors. If we would we could not abdicate the position of which our power, our influence, our wealth, our location, permit us to retain among the nations of the earth.

The joint resolution was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

The Senate then took up the Blair Educational Bill as unfinished business.

Mr. Cameron moved that when the Senate adjourned today, it adjourn to meet on Monday. The motion was agreed to—yeas 29, nays 19.

A Proclamation Issued on the Texas Boundary Question.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The President has issued a proclamation warning all persons claiming to act as officers of the county of Green, in the State of Texas, against selling or disposing, and warning all persons against purchasing, lands lying between the north and south forks of the Red River and the hundredth degree of longitude, jurisdiction over the same being vested in the United States as a part of Indian Territory, as shown by surveys and an investigation made on behalf of the people of the United States, which territory the State of Texas also claims title and jurisdiction over. A Mysterious Death.

The friends of Charles Springer, who died so suddenly at No. 403 Sixth street, near Olive, on New Year's day, started an inquiry into the real cause of his death last night. Rumor has it that an overdose of morphine was given him while he was suffering from a very sore throat, by his wife. Mr. Springer was a clerk in the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Army in this city. An official investigation as to the cause of his death is talked of by the authorities. People who are acquainted with Springer and his wife claim that both are victims of the morphine habit, and the finding of 14 60-grain morphine bottles empty in the room occupied by the couple, gives coloring to the idea that his sudden death was caused by an overdose of morphine.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Alhambra.

ALHAMBRA, Jan. 4.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] THE TIMES Trade Annual came to us Sunday, as bright, fresh and crisp as the lovely morning that ushered in the year of 1888. Words of praise and admiration came from every lip, and its readers in Alhambra wish the TIMES-MIRROR a prosperous, happy new year.

The trustees of the Village Improvement Society are getting down to work, and the result of their labors will soon be made apparent. They have under discussion the planting out of a park around the Southern Pacific depot, and will interest the scholars in adorning the school-grounds.

Articles of incorporation under the laws of the State have been filed, and they will meet every Monday morning, and work like beavers for the good of Alhambra.

I desire to make the amende honorable to the San Gabriel brass band in unwittingly accusing them in my last of combining with canines in inaugurating the first noisy Sabbath night in Alhambra's experience. On interviewing the proprietor of the Hotel de Lisi, I am satisfied that the whole disturbance was caused by five escaped musicians from "the only" 4-Paw's menagerie. My humiliation is complete, and under the circumstances I can only request the TIMES cashier to deduct $90 from my salary this week and apply it as a nucleus for the founding of a home for indigent musicians.

The last two rain-storms have furnished us in the neighborhood of nine inches of water. The dust is laid; in fact, some of it must be laid well out by Catalina Island, judging by the hurrying of muddy streams seaward all day yesterday and through the night. The culvert across Boabdil street, near the first arroyo, is gone, as also on Mission street, at the second arroyo, and always will go on like occasions, until the powers that be can be brought to realize that the individual drops that make up a mountain torrent cannot be persuaded to stand in line, like the patrons of the Los Angeles postoffice, and await patiently their turn to pass through a 12 or 24-inch culvert. YUSUF.

THUMPED AN OLD MAN.

And Gets A Good Dose from Justice Austin.

Thomas Hase, a tough-looking customer, certainly not more than 18 years of age, was charged before Justice Austin yesterday with having committed battery on poor old Dan Mahoney, an old-timer, who is always in the City Prison on one charge or another. It seems that old Dan had got hold of three blankets and was comfortably asleep in cell No. 20 in the City Prison, when Hase was put into the same cell for lodging. Seeing Dan was an old man and fast asleep, Hase jerked him out of his blankets and took them away from him. Not content with this, when Mahoney approached to ask the loss of his coverings, Hase jumped on the old man and "done him up" in true prize-ring style, making the poor fellow's face look like a fresh circus poster. As there was no doubt as to the guilt of Hase, the Court sentenced him to 60 days' in the County Jail, and in addition, gave him a vigorous lecture on his brutality.

Accident to a Schooner.

Yesterday morning, as the three-masted schooner Sailor Boy was being towed into San Pedro by a tugboat, she managed to run on the rocks, and it was thought would be badly damaged before she could be taken off. About three hours' hard work with two tugs, however, took her from her dangerous position, and she was taken to the San Pedro wharf. The extent of her damages could not be estimated until she was unloaded and docked.

A CARD.

An Inviting Opening for Capitalists and Investors.

The undersigned proffers to purchasers desiring to identify themselves with an enterprise offering immediate and large returns; fifteen hundred and thirty-one (1531) acres of beautiful land, with ample water supply. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad under contract to build through the property at once. With one and a quarter miles of magnificent beach front, commanding an unexcelled view of the ocean and mountains.

Adjoins on the Los Angeles side, Redondo Beach, with its proposed magnificent improvements. Within one-quarter mile of the imposing iron pier; great deep-water harbor; line of fast steamers to compete with the railroad and make trips to San Francisco in 20 hours, and its immense hotel. Lands of the Redondo Beach Company are now selling for $400 and above per acre.

The above property is offered at a bargain, in a most inviting way, to capitalists and investors by NICHOLAS D. COLEMAN,
(Representing the owner),
At Childress Safe Deposit Bank, No. 37 South Spring street, Los Angeles, Cal.

A Card.

It is with pleasure that I recommend my former partner, J. B. Myer, to the many old patrons of the firm of Ford & Myer, and acquaintances generally, for I believe that in all dealings he will give the utmost satisfaction. Knowing from my acquaintance with him that he is careful and vigilant, I believe that all business intrusted to him will be handled in a most satisfactory manner. Yours truly, Geo. O. Ford.

Rodrigues & Weill, 407 North Main street, have purchased the entire exhibit of Placer county fruits lately on view at Phillips block. Those who want some of the luscious oranges know where to call.

The owner of the handsomely-improved Patterson tract, on Adams street, is willing to close out the unsold lots at low figures if sold within a week. The prices asked are 30 to 40 per cent. less than surrounding lots on inferior tracts, and investors and home-seekers are offered a chance now which they should not neglect. Call for particulars at 25 West First street, room 2.

A Railroad Center.

Nadeau Park is located right at the junction of the Southern Pacific and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroads, with the Los Angeles and Ocean Railroad, now assured, to connect at the same point, thus securing the finest competing railroad facilities for Los Angeles. Lots for sale by John W. Gardner, 218 South Spring street.

San Fernando defies competition in the citrus fruit lands. She dares anybody to find a one-horse in the valley or any finer climate anywhere. It would pay to go and see the old mission, even if one does not want land. Recollect, water in quantities desired by purchasers guaranteed and shown to be already flowing.

Kalles.

Los Angeles, January 3, 1888.—This is to certify that Ah Lee has this day purchased of J. Lopez, the furniture and lease of the restaurant at 365 Upper Main street, and notice is hereby given that J. Lopez will pay all bills contracted prior to this date. Ah Lee.

California Land Office, 23 W. First St.,

Desires to inform the public in general, and real estate buyers and dealers in particular, that we are about entering upon our third year's real estate business in the city of Los Angeles and throughout the State; that we believe firmly now, as in the past, in the great possibilities and future prosperity of this

as well as in Southern California, the promised land's acres. That our extensive investments and present holdings of the "real" prove our position, as well as the immense capital

Of Over $500,000 in Gold Coin

under our exclusive control and command, is further proof that we are now, as heretofore, on the lookout for bargains in real properties, which affords us great pleasure in offering to residents and newcomers the best opportunities for we are well aware that plenty of ready cash is now subject to check (notwithstanding a small percentage of eastern opinion regarding Southern California and high prices),

To Buy Special Bargains,

And Awaiting Investment

in "Al edge" properties, such as we handle, and that the profits have not all been "shaken out," as we are not all here for our health, and those who are can enjoy a handsome income on small investments; although our office has bought and sold a great many thousand acres, also formed numerous syndicates for the purchase of "big things," large city tracts, immense ranches, etc.,

In Southern California.

We are not aware of one solitary piece or interest in any property sold by us that the purchaser is not well satisfied with or has not made large profits from. In fact

We are Prepared to Purchase

any interest or land sold by us at a handsome advance, to those who desire to sell the same. This is doubly true of any of our syndicates. We have on our books for sale

Over Five Million Dollars'

worth of property, yet we cannot recommend over one-fifth of it as being safe and economical investments for quick returns. The profits in our great ARLINGTON HEIGHTS syndicate now forming, we can assure you will be large, and with our management and progressive way of doing things, shall be among all shareholders as sales are made. Several of our best buys are now in large acreage properties at very low prices. It is not strange that in the great volume of our business some persons will creep in who think they have come far enough west to get

Equally Divided

"Sumthin' for Nuthin'."

Such cases are the exception, however. We have had our say for this time, and have no apologies to make. We expect our business to continue, to prosper and grow UPON ITS MERITS ONLY, and therefore do not feel under obligations to even our patrons. At the same time all are invited to visit McCARTHY'S spacious real estate office and take a ride with us, to get posted, see properties and the sights. No obligation, whatever, to purchase unless it is for your own interests to do so,

BUSINESS.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, Thursday, Jan. 5.

The storm this week has had a decidedly demoralizing effect on most branches of local trade. With fairer skies and the holiday season over, brisker business may be expected.

Lard and Bacon have an upward tendency. Eastern Lard has been advanced. Reviewing the Grocery trade for 1887 the American Grocer of New York has the following:

Prices in the Grocery trade have tended upward. The consumption of Sugar is slightly ahead of that in 1886. The speculation in Coffee and the high prices of the year resulted in a decrease in the consumption of about 650,000 bags, while the consumption of Tea was seemingly increased to the extent of 12,933 packages over 1886, a gain of over 10 per cent. Prices for medium to fine Japan declined about 3 cents per pound, and choice from 1 to 1½ cents per pound. Of Sugar it is said that during the year there has been a gradual reduction of stocks, and this, with the decrease of the Beet crop, estimated at 200,000 tons, and the Cane crop not above an average, has led to a steady increase in prices, which, however, is more pronounced in foreign than in domestic markets. Of Bread and Butter consumers have taken less than in 1886. Coffee has advanced 72 per cent. in price and decreased largely in consumption, while Tea declined 13 cents per pound on medium grade and the deliveries increased 126,563 packages, or 10 per cent. In 1887 Cheese averaged 2 cents per pound higher than in 1886; Rice is 25 per cent. higher; Pork $3.95 per barrel, or a rise of 37½ per cent; Lard 6@10 cents per pound. Canned goods were higher, the most notable advance being in Salmon, which shows a gain of from 45 to 50 cents per dozen.

Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—MONEY on call, 3 to 4 per cent; last loan 3; closed offered, 2.

Prime mercantile paper 6@7½.

Sterling exchange, dull but firm at 4.83½ for 60-day bills; 4.86¼ for demand.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The stock market was less active today. Coal stocks and grangers were again the leaders of speculation, and in the early morning the prevailing bullish feeling was strengthened by reports that Reading officials would arbitrate the question with the miners, and a general buying movement was inaugurated, which extended to the whole list. This was added by a rumor that influential bull leaders had formed a pool to twist shorts, which prevented further selling in the short interest, and so restricted business to very small limits. Other influences in the advance were the reported signing of the Oregon Navigation lease and the investment demand for railroad mortgages in consequence of heavy January disbursements. The list reached the highest point at about 1 o'clock, after which the market remained strong at an advance. The close was quiet but firm at about the best prices of the day. Governments dull and steady.

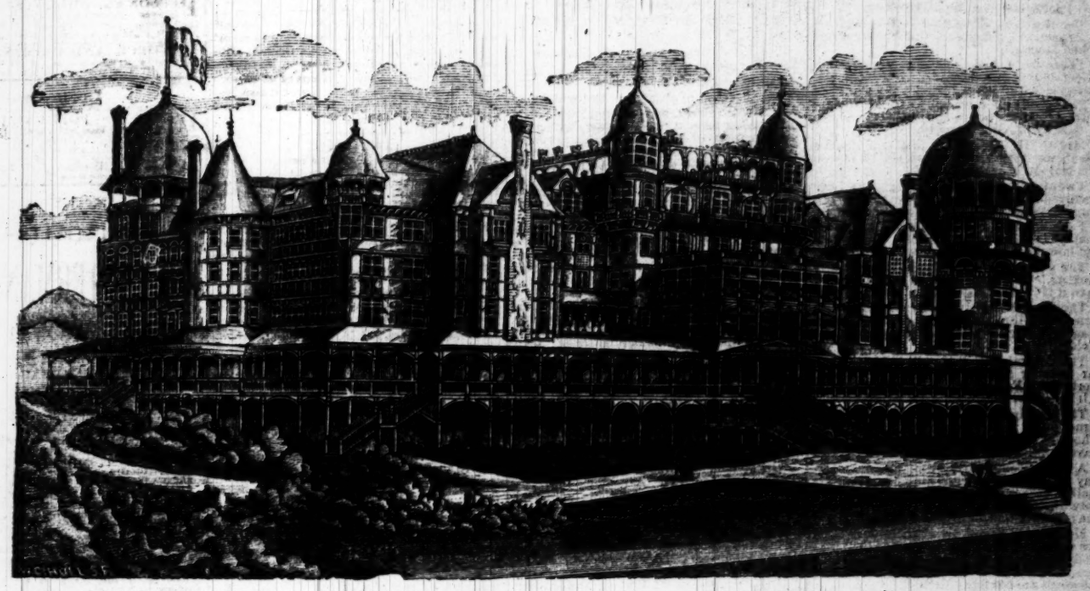
The Gem of the Continent!



Maps will be ready in a few days, and sale of lots to subscribers commenced, of which due notice will be given. Only a portion of the property will be sold this season and more than half of this portion has been subscribed for. The balance reserved until hotel and other improvements near completion. Parties wishing lots should get their signatures on the list at once. Wharf has been contracted for. Railroad from Inglewood to Redondo Beach now being built. Look out for important announcements to be made public in a few days relative to this place as a commercial harbor second to none on the coast. Parties who subscribe for lots now will soon realize their great value.

REDONDO BEACH.

SIXTEEN MILES SOUTHWEST OF THE CITY OF LOS ANGELES, IS without doubt the finest place on the continent for a seaside resort, and the enterprising company is doing all that ample means and broad ideas suggest to fully realize the grand results that nature has made possible. Two miles of water front aligned like a half-moon bay, of which the northern horn is occupied by a remarkably fine pebble beach, the southern part by the very best bathing beach anywhere to be enjoyed, while the middle portion is an abrupt shingled shore, bordering water so very deep that the largest ships may lie free from ground-swell within a stone's throw of land. Rising behind this frontage a peculiarly beautiful rolling land is backed by low but commanding hills, something less than a mile from shore and in amphitheatre form, so that the place is a panorama unto itself from every point of view. The higher grounds look back upon the city of Los Angeles and the Sierra Madre range, and the ocean view in the opposite direction is set between rocky headlands that hold it as in a frame for the outlook of the surroundings.

A salt-spring lake, half a mile in length, whose waters are much more dense than those of the sea, presents opportunities for quiet boating and peculiarly healthful bathing not paralleled at other places. The soils are remarkably fertile; the fresh water supply, to be piped throughout the tract, is pure and abundant, and the sub-soils are open and absorptive. So that beautifying of grounds is of easy accomplishment, and the healthfulness of the place is assured. A hotel of the most ample dimensions, picturesque effects and perfect appointments is to be built adjoining the beach, on a site terraced to the water-front promenade, and flanked by a park which extends to the bathing beach on one hand and on the other to the IRON PIER, costing over $100,000, reaching into deep water and arranged for landing of boats of every description, from the mosquito yacht to the trans-ocean clipper.

THE CHAUTAUQUA ASSEMBLY—Grounds for the accommodation of the Chautauqua Assembly of Southern California have been set aside, and here the management are about to build an amphitheatre and other permanent structures.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

The Superior Courts were all closed yesterday afternoon.

The river has not raised sufficiently to do any damage in the city.

Two loads of mail came in on the Southern Pacific last evening at 6 o'clock.

The Board of Education will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Spring-street schoolhouse.

There is a bad hole on Upper Main street, below Marchessault. No light was burning last night.

Two good silver watches are waiting for an owner at the police station. They can be had by proving property.

Mrs. C. H. Alford has just completed a nice two-story dwelling of six rooms on Central street. It cost $4500.

Twenty-six or 27 bold burglaries have occurred in this city within the past two or three days, and still the police are asleep.

Pasadena mail reached here last evening that was mailed on the 2d inst., thus proving how slow railroads are when out of fix.

The west side of the City Hall is gradually sinking. The Bryson block will probably save it if it is not too slow in taking shape.

The excursionists who were detained at San Bernardino on account of the storm reached this city yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Central W.C.T.U. will hold its regular meeting at the Trinity M. E. Church, Fort street, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All ladies invited.

The Phillips block, now in course of construction, is being damaged by the rain. The iron pillars in front of the building have sunk at least 1¼ inches.

A belligerent party threatened yesterday to get out a writ of attachment for his mail in case it was not promptly delivered, notwithstanding the fact there was none in the office for him.

Members of Frank Bartlett Relief Corps are requested to attend the public installation of the officers-elect of the corps at Grand Army Hall this evening. Visiting members are cordially invited.

Last night was the time fixed for the public installation ceremonies of Coeur de Lion Commandery No. 9, Knights Templar, but on account of the storm it was postponed until next Thursday evening.

Early yesterday morning a brakeman who works for the Santa Fé Company, had two of the fingers on his right hand badly crushed while coupling cars. He was sent to Dr. Tremain's office for treatment.

The following marriage licenses were issued yesterday: Columbus C. Range and Ida Summers, James D. Carrie and Ida Erickson, Henry Pferrmann and Helen Schloss, José Lopez and Candida Montaño.

A complaint for foreclosure of mortgage was filed yesterday with the County Clerk. Larkin Snodgrass is plaintiff and F. L. Goldsberry et al. are defendants. The mortgage was given to secure payment of a promissory note for $1500.

Sackett Corsell, city editor of the Telegram is out of trouble. The woman who came all the way from Yuma, Ariz., to have him arrested on a charge of having captured her purse has withdrawn the charge and his bondsmen have been released.

R. T. Appingham walked into Woollacott's store, on Spring street, and sneaked a bottle of liquor last night. He made off, but was captured on Commercial street by Officer Reel, and brought to the police station, where he was booked for petit larceny.

The Unity Choral Society's concert on Sunday evening at the Opera-house will be the first of a series of four. The society has been fortunate in securing the assistance of high-class artists, both local and transient, and they confidently anticipate the finest sacred concert yet given in this city.

C. H. Brown, the architect who suffered a painful accident last Monday while out hunting, will probably lose the sight of his right eye. He caught his foot in some brush and fell, striking a mustard stalk that had been cut off, leaving a sharp point. The stick penetrated the eye, destroying the sight. Mr. Brown is at his home, 735 Fort street, attended by Dr. Babcock.

An embankment was thrown across the alleyway in the block to the west of Olive and north of Fourth streets yesterday morning. Above it a large body of water gathered, and in the afternoon it broke, precipitating a large body of water down Olive street, making it impassable for pedestrians, and many of the dwellers below wondered where it all came from. It washed out a few of the crosswalks on Olive street.

Applications for lodgings at the police station are increasing, and the place was filled last night. The wet weather is having its effect in driving in the homeless, who prefer spending the night in the station to standing out in the rain. The accommodations are very poor, but they beat nothing. A supply of blankets is badly needed, as there are now hardly enough for the prisoners.

C. Bellue, the Vernon constable charged with bribery, was convicted in Justice Taney's court yesterday, and will be sentenced this morning. Bellue took $5 from one Graville, whom he had in custody, as a fee for services in going errands, but which, it is claimed, was paid Bellue not to press the charge against Graville, who was released from the County Jail on Bellue's request.

Night before last Graham Crall, the surveyor, was returning home, and, when near the normal school, a rough-looking citizen jumped out and asked him the time of night. Mr. Crall told him he did not know, when the fellow made a grab for his watch. The chain broke, and Mr. Crall was about to do him up when he took to his heels and escaped.

Complaint is made that car No. 22 was thrown from the track between Second and Third streets last evening, causing a detention of about half an hour. About a dozen passengers were on the car, including one lady, who were compelled to get out in the mud. The conductor, when remonstrated with, indulged in violent and profane language, and when told that he would be reported, told the indignant passenger to go ahead, which he will do this morning.

PERSONAL NEWS.

F. E. Blackeidge and wife are guests at the Natick Hotel.

Emanuel Rogers, a prominent banker of Fremont, Neb., is spending midwinter in this city.

W. C. Leland, of Waterloo, Iowa, has just arrived from the icy plateau of Northern Iowa.

Charles C. Clark, traveling salesman for Heilman & Haas, is in the city a guest at the Nadeau.

Dr. R. Saunders, general ticket agent of the Utah and Northern Railway, came down to Los Angeles yesterday.

W. T. Spillman, contractor for the Pomona and Elsinore Railway, is in the city. Work is suspended on the works for a few days. It is the intention to put on a force of 1000 teams, and complete the line to San Diego by August 1st.

A Native Son Party.

The public installation of officers and the entertainment of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, N.S.G.W., was held last night in their hall, in the McDonald block, and was, on account of the disagreeableness of the weather, not so well attended as the features of the evening's ceremonies and entertainment warranted. However, the hall was comfortably filled, and the evening was greatly enjoyed by those present.

The opening ceremonies were followed by an excellently rendered overture by the orchestra, after which the installation of the new officers took place. Homer C. Katz acted as master of ceremonies, and put the following officers through: J. M. Clancy, to the office of Past President; J. A. McCusker, as President; W. S. Marchant, First Vice-President; J. H. Brenner, Second Vice-President; J. A. Bernal, Third Vice-President; Samuel Gerson, Recording Secretary; E. B. Loventhal, Financial Secretary; J. D. Schieck, Treasurer; George Swain; Marshal.

After the installation a gold-headed cane was presented by the members of the parlor to Past President J. H. Chancy, and a beautiful gold badge was presented to William Stevenson, the retiring Financial Secretary of the parlor. An interesting programme was then carried out. Dancing followed, and was kept up to a late hour, and the members of the parlor may feel proud of the creditable manner in which the programme was carried out.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

Mayor Workman and President Humphreys Do Good Work.

The Board of Police Commissioners met in adjourned session yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, with the full board, Mayor Workman, President Humphreys, the Chief of Police and Clerk Moffitt in attendance.

The board then resumed consideration of the charges against John King, and decided the charge sustained, after which the license heretofore granted to the said John, No. 26 Aliso street, was ordered revoked.

It having been already shown during the investigation of the charges against John King that the saloons kept by G. G. Brown, 115 Marchessault street; J. G. Kenyon, 25 North Los Angeles street; J. Dupuy, 29 North Los Angeles street; E. W. Myers, 21 and 23 North Los Angeles street; W. H. Dillard, 257 East First street, and Bates & Bonner, 113 North Los Angeles street, were disorderly and disreputable, the licenses heretofore granted to all of the above-named parties were declared revoked, and the Chief of Police was instructed to serve upon them notice of such revocation.

Complaint having been made to the commissioners of the disorderly character of the saloons kept by A. Coldera, 16 Aliso street; J. H. Camport, 104 Commercial street; Jean Grimaud, 8 Aliso street; Dohoney & Maloney, 148 Upper Main street; Thomas E. Jones, 69 North Los Angeles street; Gondre & Fleur, 313 Alameda street, and Emil Fauer, 315 Commercial street, the police clerk was instructed to notify them that unless they conducted their saloons in a more orderly manner in the future their licenses would be revoked.

The police clerk was instructed to get the opinion of the City Attorney as to the authority of the board to limit the hours that saloons in parts of the city shown to be disreputable would be allowed to keep open.

The saloon licenses granted since the last regular meeting to Fred Hopf, corner Third and Los Angeles streets; J. D. Kress, corner First and Spring streets, and R. C. Pearsons, corner Temple and Spring streets, were approved.

Applications for saloon licenses were received from Johnson & Fisher, 800 San Fernando street; John Futcher, Daly street; Baertschinger & Waldkerele, corner Third and Main streets, and referred to the Chief of Police for investigation.

The petition received at a previous meeting from Granville Huddleston, asking that he be appointed janitor of the City Hall for the year 1888, was taken up and considered, but final action in the matter was postponed until the next regular meeting.

The question of paying the wages of Officer S. G. Morton during the time he was suspended, from December 18th to December 28th, was considered, but final action was postponed until the next regular meeting.

A petition was received from James Cummings, captain of the chain-gang, asking that he be furnished with a star, which was granted, and the Chief of Police instructed to have a star made for him.

The bills of the Chief of Police of $89.45, for incidental expenses during December, 1887, and $62 for secret service in the same month, were received, considered and approved for the full amount.

Applications were received for positions on the police force from A. J. Graham, J. W. Brady, F. M. Wiley, Frank Smalle, Lionel Hawtrey, J. D. Henderson, Francis E. Haskell, Samuel Rodgers, S. Q. Richardson, F. H. Steele, Felix D. Curran, B. H. Sterns, Thomas M. Gilbert, A. F. Beard, August Wesner, Frank G. Gilliland, and ordered placed on file.

Adjourned.

Santa Fé Trains.

The local trains on the Santa Fé road handle about 3000 people per day. This traffic has increased so largely during the past few months that the company have found it necessary to put on several additional local trains to meet the requirements of the public. Already the effects of this change are noticeable. At Garvanza, midway between Los Angeles and Pasadena, there are over $40,000 worth of buildings under construction, and it is understood that John R. Wolcott of 127 West First street, has just closed contracts with parties to build houses costing over $20,000. Parties desiring to secure pleasant homes will do well to call on Mr. Wolcott, as he has several houses for sale.

Sold at Hesperia.

The sale of lots and acre tracts in Hesperia began yesterday in this city. In spite of the rain and mud, over $50,000 worth of real estate was sold. In the absence of an auction or unusual demonstration, this is one of the largest opening sales ever made in Los Angeles. Returns from the company's offices at San Bernardino and other places are not yet in owing to the washouts, and they will probably swell the aggregate much more.

Stammering and stuttering permanently and thoroughly cured by Prof. J. Whitehorn, room 15, Schumacher Block. A cure in all accepted cases guaranteed. Reception hours from 2 to 4 daily.

TESTIMONIALS.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 25, 1887.

This is to certify that I am 47 years of age, and have stammered over 40 years. I am now pleased to state that after four months' instruction under Prof. J. Whitehorn in Los Angeles I experience but little if any impediment, and can now talk well.

SMITH JAMES, Pasadena.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 23, 1886.

I was afflicted with stammering for 28 years. Prof. J. Whitehorn has now completely cured me, after being under his treatment two months.

MRS. B. C. SHRADER.

PRESS NOTICE.

Burbank Times, Dec. 24, 1887: Prof. J. Whitehorn of Los Angeles makes a specialty of treating stammering, and has been remarkably successful. He cured an acquaintance of the editor of this paper, a lady who was very unfortunate in the impediment of her speech, and today she talks as fluently as one could wish. There are several in the south who have also been successfully treated. We give this to our readers as a note written by ourself from purely humanitarian impulse.

Remember that Prof. Whitehorn guarantees a cure in all accepted cases, and no charge is made for consultation. Office, room 15, Schumacher Block, No. 7 North Spring street. Reception hours 2 to 4 daily.

Successfully treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D.,

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by

DR. WILLIAMS,

With his new system of Medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

Inhalations are applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, but must be prepared for each individual case as they severally require.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success.

The very best references from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but if impossible to do so can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address,
